LIGHT METER TAX DECIDED ON BY CITY

Substitute for License Tax on Merchants as an Emergency Measure

TO FUND POLICEMEN

Protestants Against Sales Ordinance Fill Meeting of City Council

It has practically been decided by the city council to impose a tax of 25 cents per month on each lighting meter in the city in order to raise the additional money required for the operating of the city administration.

It is claimed that by imposing a tax of this kind about $2000 monthly will be raised, there being about 8000 lighting meters in Glendale.

This amount, it is declared, will take care of the deficiency existing and also the increased operating expenses.

When this matter was brought up last night there were a number of merchants present to protest against the passage of the business tax ordinance, which was vigorously protested against at the previous meeting. These were ready to jump to their feet when it was announced by Mayor Robinson that further protests against the proposed ordinance would be out of place inasmuch as the council had already decided to withdraw the proposed ordinance.

"This does not eliminate the necessity for more money," said the mayor, "and it is simply a matter of finding the best way to raise the coin."

Councilman Kimlin then told of the present plans of the council along this line.

"In the raising of this necessary money we have a big proposition on our hands and we fully realize it. The first proposition that we brought forward has been turned down, and in laying the matter aside we show that we are trying to conform with the wishes of the people. We have another proposition to offer. This one is a 25-cent tax on every lighting or water meter in the city and possibly both. This is one of the fairest ways we can think of for raising this money, and it spreads the burden of payment out pretty fairly throughout the city. We are not tryin gto put anything over on the people of Glendale, but the fact of the matter is this money absolutely must be raised and we think that this would be a good way to raise it."

When Mr. Kimlin asked all those present who opposed the business tax and who favored the meter tax to stand, practically everyone of those who opposed the former tax rose to their feet. When it was asked how many in the audience

SIDE LIGHTS OF CITY COUNCIL

A variety of small transactions were putthrough by the city council Thursday night besides the big things handled. One such was the authorization given Superintendent of Plant and Production Diedrich to purchase a roadster for the use of his department.

Upon a complaint turned in by Health Officer Hollienbeck that parties in Verdugo Woodlands were camping too close to the stream, the police department was instructed to order them to move on.

The council also ruled that the 25-foot set back established for building in the residence districts applies to the foundations of the house and not to the porches extending forward from the foundation.

At the request of Chief Frazier the council voted to employ two more motor cops.

SEEK ADVENTIST ACADEMY SITE

Elder J. E. Fulton, president of the Pacific Union Adventists' conference, Elder G. W. Reader, educational superintendent, Elder W. W. Ruble, accompanied by a couple of representatives of the Southwest Conference, Elder Nethery and Elder V. E. Peugh, are touring the Southwest looking for a desirable site for the academy now located at San Fernando which they wish to transfer to a more central location. They have been to Pomona, Ontario and Riverside and are going to Ventura, before returning to Glendale.

ALMOND GROWERS MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Representatives of 23 state branches of the California Almond Growers' association met here today to decide the future of the organization.

Reports showed that only about 18 per cent of the total almond crop of the state is signed up under the five-year marketing agreement of the association. Officers were opposed to going ahead without control of what they termed "a dominating percentage" of the crop.

Pays to Keep Busy Using What Talent You May Possess

When you read "The Listening Post" tonight you will learn that it pays to keep busy, to use what you have to advantage of talent, genius, capacity or ability. Mr. Foley draws a very sharp lesson which it would be well for everyone to read.

When you read the comment on the day's news by Henry James you will find this interesting paragraph, "The prevalence of abnormal amount of crime in our large cities is the result of years of molly-coddling and sympathy by misinformed and ill-advised meddlers." Mr. Jones comments on this as well as other topics of interest.

In the editorial columns will be found four very able and well written editorials on as many subjects.

Della Stewart advises her readers to drink in the beauty, calm, bigness and broadness of this world and John Pilgrim in his "Watching the Parade" column says there is something more worth while having than mere pluck. It is the ability to keep on going long after pluck has gone.

WOODLAND GAS PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED

Representing Committee, W. E. Evans Reports Progress to Council

The committee on securing gas service for Verdugo canyon appeared before the city council last night. Attorney W. E. Evans, representing this committee, stated that body had made considerable progress since its last appearance before the board. He said that the committee had met with the officials of the gas company and that a tentative contract which it is expected will be adopted with the city and the gas company as parties was presented for the perusal of the board. In effect this contract states that the district to be benefited by the gas extensions shall vote bonds sufficient to run the gas mains into that territory. The company will refund this money to the district just as rapidly as connections are made, a given amount to be allowed for each installation. The company agrees, that if at the close of ten years, if all of the amount of the bond issue has not been refunded the remainder will at that time be turned over to the district.

In this entire matter the gas company is meeting the people of the district a little more than half way and is endeavoring to do the right thing all the way through. The point on the company's present system is at the corner of Lexington and Verdugo road, and at this corner the line running up into the canyon will connect with the present lines.

The committee is now working on the matter of determining on a boundary for the district to be assessed for this much-needed improvement. When this district has been determined the map will be presented to the city and at the earliest possible moment the bond issue will be called.

ROTARIANS ARE GROWING WEEKLY

Only Few Members Miss Good Food for Thought

Members of the Rotary club, which had its regular luncheon Thursday noon at the chamber of commerce, declare that their meetings are growing better and better week by week. All but three members were present, two of the being absent from Glendale and probably in attendance on Rotary clubs in other cities.

The list of visiting Rotarians included Bill Byers, Dick Guiberson, Harry Dutton, Hal Hawkins, Ed Stafford and C. Warner Van Valkenberg. Other visitors not Rotarians were Dr. E. E. Ford, pastor of the Glendale Baptist church, and Harry James.

A get-acquainted stunt proposed by George Karr was pulled off and proved highly interesting. The man at each end of the table was called upon to tell something about the man at the other end, and so on down the line until they met in the middle. A good many other things were learned about the "other fellow" that had not been known before.

A short talk was made by Dr. Ford and two vocal solos were sung by Dick Guiberson, who was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Van Valkenberg.

An address on the duties of Rotarians was made by Secretary J. Herbert Smith.

BANDITS RAID STORE

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Three bandits held up the Max Kurjan jewelry store here and escaped with loot valued at $50,000.

Two of the robbers covered clerks with revolvers while the third looted the safe, which was unlocked.

$20,000,000 EXPLOSION IN INDIANA

Five Injured in Destruction of Oil Still at Whiting

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

Ambulances Rushed to Scene; Search of Ruins Is Under Way

WHITING, IND., April 14.—Alfred Plant, a workman, was burned to death and three others seriously injured in an explosion and fire which caused $2,000,000 damage to the plant of the Standard Oil company here today.

The explosion occurred in battery No. 4 of the tube stills and wrecked two of the pressure stills in the center of the plant. The stills contained thousands of gallons of oil and gas going through the refining process.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by a leak in the bottom of a still igniting.

Flames shot into the air more than 100 feet and the surrounding country was rocked by the blast.

WHITING, Ind., April 14.—Five were injured and $2,000,000 worth of property damaged today in an explosion and fire at the Standard Oil company plant here today. The cause of the blasts, which started in one of the stills, is unknown.

The explosion was felt as far as South Chicago.

Ambulances from East Chicago, Indiana Harbor and other nearby towns were rushed to the scene. Volunteer firemen searched the debris, believing that some workmen may have been buried.

A $2,000,000 explosion occurred here last July at the Standard Oil company's plant.

SAFETY LIMIT OF ARMY IS 150,000

Major General Harbord Tells the Senate the Minimum Required

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Warning was served on the senate today by Major General James Harbord, deputy chief of staff, that 150,000 men is the safety limit for the army of the United States.

The reduction of the army to 115,000 men in the appropriation bill passed by the house provides a force which "is dangerously small and imperils the national defense," General Harbord declared in testifying before the senate appropriations committee on the army bill.

The army "simply cannot do the work with less than 150,000 men," Harbord declared, otherwise "something must give way, either the training of the citizen soldier, which we regard as our principal business, or the coast defenses and ordinary work of the regular army, its readiness for strikes, and other emergencies. There is a minimum limit before which you cannot go with safety."

After stating that the regular army within the continental United States furnishes troops for the suppression of domestic violence and aids communities in time of distress, Harbord said:

"There are in this country many communists, reds and pinks, and the organized minority is very arrogant. Within six months troops have been needed in several states. Two requests for them have reached the war department this week. In the two years from June 1, 1915 to June 1, 1917, there were 400 calls for the use of regular troops."

Harbord declared that with even the present strength of the army, the war department is able to man but 13 of the 25 coast defenses, with "practically nothing more than caretaking south of Charleston and north of Boston."

CIVIC BODIES ARE CALLED TO MEET

Chamber of Commerce Summons City Officials and Executives

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce has called a conference of its officials, the city council, heads of the civic organizations of the community, the realty board and other groups, at a dinner to be held next Tuesday evening at 6:30 at the chamber. The topics to be considered are not announced.

Why Not Tell the World What Glendale Can Offer?

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

"In the Spring a young man's fancy" and in the Spring a young city has tender thoughts, too. The latter center largely around new population, business development, industrial growth.

Glorious Glendale, getting ready for house-cleaning and increased activity in realty, looks along the empty vistas paralleling the San Fernando road and wonders what has become of that industrial movement that seemed about to set in last fall. There are a few new industries, of course, but the vacant spaces are still there awaiting factories and mills and production enterprises to give sustaining BACKBONE to the splendid prosperity of this fine city.

John H. Gerrie

And the thought occurs that perhaps the industrial world DOESN'T KNOW that Glendale the Glorious has set aside an area for manufacturing sites, that it is directly on the main line of a great railroad system facing one of the largest-travelled automobile boulevards on this coast and offering every advantage that can be obtained in any California city and then some. That may be the Ethiopian in the wood pile.

Then why not tell the industrial world all about it?

Aside from location, aside from climate, aside from CONTENTED LABOR, which means a great deal, aside from distribution facilities, the Glendale industrial area possesses an asset that cannot be surpassed, if indeed it can be equalled, anywhere else on the Pacific slope. This asset is ADVERTISING VALUE.

Forty passenger trains run along the face of the Glendale industrial district every day in the year. On some day in the year almost everybody worth while in the United States rides in a Pullman coach along the entire length of the district. This includes capitalists and consumers, chiefs of great business organizations and buyers for immense co-operative associations. The ADVERTISING VALUE of a Glendale site for a manufacturing plant with a product making a national appeal can scarcely be estimated. It's like a page in Saturday Evening Post, with the added advantage of SHOWING DAILY.

But that is not all. It's really only the beginning. The San Fernando road through Glendale is the main highway between Northern and Southern California. It is the most travelled route between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara. It is the popular line of motor travel between the San Fernando valley and the beaches. Ten thousand or more automobiles bowl over this road DAILY in the touring season. There are continuous processions on Sundays and holidays. It is estimated that on some days more than 50,000 individuals make the trip by motor car along the entire length of the Glendale industrial area.

Cut that figure in half and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays throughout the year nearly 3,000,000 consumers of something will ride along the manufacturing district. Figuring on 10,000 for week-days and the aggregate of passers-by in a year would be approximately 6,000,000 human beings who see, read and CONSUME.

Wouldn't that be of some value to manufacturers whose product is for consumption?

In the face of these facts it would seem as if Glendale possesses in the location of its industrial area an asset that is not sufficiently appreciated at home and not known away from home. WHY NOT TELL THE WORLD?

Many eastern manufacturers are in the lookout for California sites for branch plants to cater to the 6,000,000 APPETITES of the Pacific coast of America and eventually to the unknown hordes of appetites in the Orient and Far East. Some manufacturers already established farther north on this coast but harassed by labor troubles are looking to Southern California as the ideal location for their plants.

But simply because Glendale has set aside an industrial district manufacturers are not going to rush here in fear that the choice [illegible] be snapped up. Forty communities in Cali[illegible] BIDDING FOR FACTORIES. They are tel[illegible] anufacturers what they have to offer.

But not one of them can offer 40 passenger trains a day and 6,000,000 automobile riders in a year along the entire face of the factory district!

Why possess this tremendous asset and do nothing with it? Why not organize an industrial commission or appoint an industrial commissioner to do nothing else but TELL MANUFACTURERS what Glendale has to offer? Get out folders, get out circulars. GET OUT SOMETHING and then get it into the hands of EVERY MANUFACTURER in the United States!

THEN WATCH GLENDALE GROW!

SLAIN IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, April 14.—Shot down within sight of scores of pedestrians in Central park west, Patrick Conners, a former Irish republican army soldier, is dying today—a victim, the police declare, of Sinn Fein vengeance.

Conners' assailant was heard by passersby to exclaim: "At last I've got you!"

Five shots were fired into the youth's body.

VERDUGO SCOUTS ARE INSTITUTED

District Council Receives Charter from Chairman Regional Committee

CEREMONIES AT HIGH

Scout Executive Benner Acts as Master of Introductions

An unusual program furnished for the most part by boys who will be the representative men of the future, was enjoyed by parents and friends of members of the various boy scout troops functioning under the Verdugo Hills district council, which assembled Thursday night to receive at the hands of Stuart W. French, chairman of the twelfth regional committee, Boy Scouts of America, the council charter.

While the audiences waited for exercises to begin, they were entertained by scout yells inaugurated by the Burbank troop, led by Ray Proctor, which were highly original, one of them being:

When you're up, you're up,
When you're down, you're down,
When you're up against Burbank
You're upside down.

Troop No. 2 also put over some very good yells, led by Dallas Kalbaugh, and other troops, including Eagle Rocks organization, were not far behind.

WILSON BREAKS WITH FORMER SEC. TUMULTY

Ex-President's Denial of Message to Party Is Cause

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Woodrow Wilson and his former secretary and devoted friend, Joseph P. Tumulty, have come to a parting of the ways over Wilson's repudiation of the now famous message delivered by Tumulty to the Jeffersonian banquet in New York last Saturday.

The big question in political circles today is whether Wilson in the near future will regret his curt letter disowning the message and take public steps to restore their long standing friendship.

Tumulty today said he intended to do nothing more about the matter but his friends believe Wilson will not permit the "misunderstanding," as Tumulty calls it, to continue.

PRESIDENT ASKS FOR 86,000 NAVY

Fights Plans to Reduce Force to 67,000 Men

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Harding in a letter read in the house today urged that the size of the navy be reduced only to 86,000 instead of 67,000, as provided in the appropriations bill.

The letter, read by Representative Longworth, Republican, Ohio, declared:

"I shall be greatly disappointed and I believe the country will be greatly disappointed if the appropriation to which the navy will and must adhere is reduced to the point where the limitation of enlisted men and apprentices is below 86,000."

FLOOD TIDE ON THE MISSISSIPPI

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 14.—The Mississippi river today is rising at all points between Cairo and Memphis. With a stage of 40.2 here a two-foot rise is expected.

Rescue and relief parties left Helena, Ark., today to aid people in the section between the White and Mississippi rivers. Supplies and food were sent in boats.

Levees are reported in good condition.

IRISH REBELS ACT

DUBLIN, April 14.—Large forces of republican (De Valera adherents) soldiers today seized the Four Courts and the Four Courts hotel.

These were the first buildings captured during the so-called Easter rebellion of 1916.

Grave fears prevail of serious disturbances in Dublin over the week-end.

Fur Coat Failed to Vamp Well, She Tells the Court

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Potency of a fur coat to lure gentlemen admirers has been tested and found wanting.

Alice Lee Marlowe, whose skill as a waitress is rivalled only by her peachy complexion, made the test.

She charged in the justice court that Mrs. Mary Willmer, who had wraps for sale, told her that if she would buy a fur coat soon she no longer would need to serve haughty gentlemen with tomato soup and apple pie at a popular lunch counter.

She tried it—a $200 coat, $5 down and $5 per week. And when the coat was all paid for she wore it to the waitresses' ball. But it didn't work, Alice alleged, and she went home from the dance on a street car, alone, instead of snuggled in a taxicab.

So now she asks her money back because, she says, the coat isn't worth $200, either as a means of keeping warm or of attracting suitors.

MONTROSE RAILW'Y SELLS ACREAGE AT LA CRESCENTA

Collins & Tillinghast Buy Park in Center of Town

One of the recent real estate transactoins of magnitude is the purchase by Collins and Tillinghast of La Crescenta of lands owned by the Glendale-Montrose Railroad and by the Great Western Improvement company. The purchase includes the ten-acre park in the center of La Crescenta for a consideration rumored to be between $40,000 and $50,000. It is the intention of the buyers to subdivide the larger portions and place them on sale within ten days.

This firm bought half of the Montrose townsite six months ago and sold 600 lots within six months. One hundred and fifty houses are under construction.

MILITIAMEN VISIT ARCADIA SCHOOL

Twenty-two of Company M Hear of Machine Gun Operation

Twenty-two members of company M, Glendale national guards, attended the school of machine-gun instruction at Arcadia Thursday evening. This school is under the supervision of the regular army and is held once a week.

Other members of company M joined the headquarters company in their regular drill on the high school athletic field.

Major Cotton, regular army instructor for this section, was here on his inspection tour. Considerable activity has developed in company M since the machine gun instruction school started, and the men are planning to go to Arcadia every Thursday night. For that reason the drill night for company M has been changed to Tuesday evening. Headquarters company will continue to drill Thursday nights.

Enlistments in both companies are now being received preparatory to going into camp in July. The encampment is to be held this year at Monterey and on the strength of this the entire regiment is receiving recruits daily.

TRADE JUNKET SET FOR APRIL 19

The big buzz along the business thoroughfares of Glendale today is the result of discussion of plans for the great mammoth trade junket of the local business men, through the San Fernando valley on Wednesday, April 19, with Mayor Robinson at the head, a jazz band behind, and the chamber of commerce in all the blazing glory of its 1000 members.

TRINITROTOLUOL EXPLODES

SALT LAKE CITY, April 14.—Further check of the damage caused by the explosion of a heavy charge of TNT at Helper, Utah, yesterday morning, shows that nine persons were injured and about $40,000 worth of damage done to buildings of the town. Many narrow escapes from death have been reported by persons who were in their houses when tons of rock crashed through the roofs.

Workmen building a detour road on the opposite side of a river near the town failed to weight the charge of TNT sufficiently and when it was set off it hurled large masses of rock high in the air, much of which rained down upon the town. E. C. Lee, county supervisor of roads, and John Steel, foreman, were arrested on the charge of criminal negligence in handling explosives. They were later released on bail.

THORNYCROFT SITUATION IS NOW SAVED

Two Weeks' Extension Is Given Cancellation of U. S. Contract

PRESS GAINS DELAY

Capt. Thomas D. Watson Pleads With Major Successfully

Through the efforts of the Glendale Daily Press, the order of Major Grant was rescinded in so far as it related to the married men among the patients. Then it was suspended to take effect two weeks hence. The patients were saved by the Glendale Daily Press.

Major Grant, reached over long distance telephone to San Francisco, by Captain Thomas D. Watson, publisher of the Glendale Daily Press.

The hardship which the order of evacuation of the sanitarium would inflict upon the disabled soldiers was related to the Major.

He was hard to convince that the order could be amended in any way.

Captain Watson described the indignation already caused in Glendale and in Los Angeles by the cold-blooded preemptory order turning the men out into the street without preparation.

An effort was made to secure a delay of at least two weeks for all the men.

This was impossible, the major said.

Capt. Watson compromised and asked that time be given for the married men to make arrangements, so that their families would not suffer hardships.

Maojr Grant, impressed by this argument, conceded the point and said he would amend the order to take care of the married men by allowing them two weeks longer stay for adjustment of their affairs.

A little later Major Grant called up Capt. Watson at the Glendale Press and informed him that an order would be issued supplementing the order to evacuate the sanitarium and a second order would be issued allowing two weeks for the closing of the contract.

The Glendale Press, therefore, saved the situation for the men at the sanitarium.

Thornycroft sanitarium, refuge of former service men and women has been peremptorily ordered closed by the government, effective April 15, tomorrow.

The order was received at the sanitarium Thursday. A panic prevailed today at the sanitarium among the patients.

Under the order, the place is to be closed as a contract hospital for the care of service men and women suffering from tuberculosis.

Responding to an appeal from the patients, telegrams have been sent to President Harding and Senator Hiram Johnson by the chamber of commerce.

The appeal to President Harding follows:

"Hon. Warren G. Harding.
"President of the United States,
"Washington, D. C.

"The disabled soldiers at the Thornycroft hospital appeal to you through the chamber of commerce of the city of Glendale to cancel the order for their removal until

DAMAGED

The Spring Quest

By JOHN BRECK

You never feel the spring is fairly launched until you have seen folks actually set out on their honeymoon. Owls do not count. They start so unreasonably soon that their courtship is as full of windy tumults and as devoid of tender warmth as the weather. What you really want is lively adventures, with happy endings.

Like the little brown salamander's. At first I hardly dared call him by his local nickname of "waterdog." He was attempting the boviously impossible with an air of importance which commanded instant respect. He meant to climb a perpendicular bank where every pebble made a tiny shelf weakly supported by an outcurved bracket of wet clay. Unassisted by his tail, he would never have got his hind feet off the ground, but with that for a bracket of his own, he did wonders—went high enough to take several serious tumbles as shelf after shelf gave way. Up and at it he charged again like the knight in the fairy tale trying to ride over the glass hill.

He was filled with dismay when I sailed him over his obstacle with a magic thumb and finger, feigning death for a full half minute. Then he squinted out of pale eyes with their slit pupils set counter-catwise, and plodded on toward a four-inch trickle of a stream. Now a "waterdog" is far from being a "seadog"—several thousand feet in perpendicular measure—but he certainly had his sea legs on. His arms moved as if his store clothes were too tight a fit, his skin was all goose prickled, and two pulsating bulges at the corners of his jaw showed where his gills were panting with exertion.

He was plainly ill at ease, as I was for him, until he took his plunge. Instantly he became smooth, semi-transparent, like a celluloid pipe stem, with a dark line of backbone making him look as if he should have a broom straw run through him. And, once in his element, I was moved to wonder at the feats he could perform.

At the very outset he negotiated a waterfall as big as Niagara would be to you or me, and merely spat out a bubble of air to show me he still had it in him, when he reached the bottom. He crowded a whole Odessy or adventure into the journey, which paused in a wide pond, literally crowded with others of his kind.

Paused, I say, for—sad anti-climax—like jack ashore he annexed the first salamander "skirt" he came across, the swarthiest, leanest, ugliest of them all. "She'll do," he seemed to say. "I'll have one conquest to my credit and there's many another in many a pool betwixt here and the sea." For sure a rollicking dog was he.

JAP WOULD EXCEL IN LONG HIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Rintaro Deguchi, famous track athlete of Osaka, Japan, is here preparing to start on a hike to New York city. He hopes to break the record for the event, hung up by John Payson Weston. Deguchi was sent to this country by the Osaka Mainichi Shimbum, Japan's leading newspaper. Deguchi is confident that he can navigate the distance in 100 days at the outside. He also hopes to make several other walking and running records while in this country, and has announced that he is open to challenges from all comers.

Deguchi holds the record from Sopporo to Tokio, a distance of 800 miles, which he covered in 14 days. He ran four miles each day while on shipboard en route here, just to keep in condition.

COSTLY CURIOSITY

LONDON, April 14.—Sidney Norburn, 59, went to a department store and bought himself a pair of binoculars, with night lenses. He appeared next day before the Middlesex County magistrate for watching the lovers on the seats in Hyde Park through his new purchase. Norburn offered a plea of "idle curiosity." The magistrate offered Norburn the choice of a ten dollar fine or a week in the hoosegow.

WIFE OF FAMOUS POET GRANTED DIVORCE

Charging that he had deserted her and that she was forced to take boarders into her home to support and educate her two daughters, Mrs. Edgar Lee Masters, wife of the famous poet, has been granted a decree of separate maintenance by a Chicago court. She also won judgment for $2000 back alimony and $300 monthly for the future. Mrs. Masters, with her daughters, Madeline, 14, and Marcia, 12, is shown here. The poet, shown in the inset, is noted for his "Anthology of Spoon River."

Listening in on Eve

WHEN ROSINA COOKED

"I'm not ready to go to the movies," said the pretty girl with the snub nose as she opened the door to the ring of the handsome sophomore. "I'll have to rest awhile anyway—I'm nearly dead!"

"Whatever has happened, Rosina?" anxiously queried the handsome sophomore, holding her hand in sympathizing grasp and forgetting to let go. "I believe you do look a little pale—"

"The steam in the kitchen melts everything off my face," desperately confessed the pretty girl, wrinkling her snub nose in disgust.

"Kitchen?" asked the young man vaguely. "Where have I heard that word?"

"I never want to hear it again," wailed the pretty girl. "Mother had to go to her sick sister's and she said it was a very good thing because it would give me a chance to try my hand at running a house. Washing dishes is perfectly ruinous on the hands!"

"You have such pretty hands, Rosina," interpolated the handsome sophomore, "and it's a perfect shame for you to have to do things like that! Why don't you use paper plates and things?"

"Aren't you wonderful, Arthur!" breathed the pretty girl. "I suggested that very thing to the family long ago as a method of efficiency, but you wouldn't believe how old-fashioned father and mother are!

"I thought this would be a good time to put in use some of my own theories—I'd read about paper bag cookery and it sounded just splendid—but the bags burst all over the oven tonight and, anyhow, I guess that the article I read didn't mean that one could cook scallopee tomatoes in a bag, after all. I thought it would save washing a baking dish—and the tomatoes burned all over the oven floor and the baked potatoes weren't done and I forgot to grease the broiler before cooking the steak and it would not come off—"

"You poor child!" the handsome sophomore said, indignantly. "I think it is wrong that you should have to do such heavy manual labor—"

"That's what I told dad when he and Bob said awful things about the dinner, but you've no idea how unsympathetic one's family can be! Father said mother had been doing these same things for several years now and her health seemed in nowise impaired—and that if I wouldn't hang over the telephone all the while maybe I wouldn't turn a plain meal into an elaborate holocust! He absolutely refused to take our dinners out till mother returns, too. He said I ought to learn how to do things—"

"He doesn't realize how fragile you are," the handsome sophomore said indignantly.

"It is just wonderful to tell my troubles to somebody like you who understands," said the pretty girl with the snub nose. "And then I had all those dishes to wash! I thought maybe I could serve everything on one plate apiece, but you should have seen the way they acted! Bob asked if it was the new style to have the butter pat running down into the tomatoes which were mixing up with the potatoes, but I know he tipped his plate on purpose and they made me put on bread and butter plates and vegetable dishes and everything, not caring a bit about the work they made me!"

"They don't appreciate you," said the handsome sophomore tenderly. "I tell you that my—my wife isn't going to do one single thing! She shan't step a foot into a kitchen or grub around with grimy dustcloths! It isn't necessary at all!"

"You are just wonderful, Arthur," said the pretty girl adoringly. "You are so much more progressive than father, but then I've noticed that all older people are dreadfully queer and old-fashioned. Those ideas of your are mine exactly! I've often told mother there was no need of her fussing so about keeping the house clean and about meals—"

"Well," said the handsome sophomore, "I suppose meals really are necessary—I like good things to eat myself and I hate dust on things like poison—only I'm positive there must be some perfectly good way to keep house without there being any work, and when we have our house we'll show 'em! You are so bright, Rosina, I know you can do it!"

"Well, maybe," said the pretty girl, regarding her hands sadly. "Only it seems awfully hard to figure out just how it is done! But I'm resolved there shall be no work at all in my house when I have one! And now, Arthur, come on out with me and see if you can get those burned tomatoes off the inside of the oven and then you can help me finish wiping all those dishes!"

CHILI-PERU PACT FOR PEACE MEET IS CALLED

Delegates to Washington Conference Ablest of Sou. American Men

SANTIAGO, April 14.—Chile has selected as her delegates to the conference at Washington this Spring two of her most capable citizens. The men who will represent their country in the scheduled meeting with the Peruvian representatives, to attempt once more to settle forty-year-old Tacna-Arica controversy were chosen for ability, without regard to politics, and this at a time when political bitterness and conflict is rife in the government.

Carlod Aldunate S., former president of the Conservative Party, now in the minority in the government, is one of the most brilliant legislators in his country, and is regarded as without a peer here as a jurist. He is 67 years old, and in the 47 years of his legal and political career has been continually in the public service.

Senor Aldunate was elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1879. He served there for thirty years, and in 1909 was chosen Senator. He remained in the Senate until 1921, and at present is a member of the Council of State, an advisory body, adjunct to the executive branch of the government.

Luis Izquierdo, the other delegate, is at present [redacted] Argentina. He is 58 years old, is a member of the Liberal party, a part of the majority coalition in the government.

Senor Izquierdo is well known in Washington. He was a member of the Chilean delegation to the Pan-American Financial Conference in 1919. He has no profession aside from that of diplomat. In the war with Peru and Boliyia, Senor Izquierdo took part in several naval engagements as a midshipman. In the revolution of 1891 he served in the revolutionary army, and attended the rank of major. His first diplomatic appointment was that of Secretary of Legation in London, and in 1895 was appointed Sub-secretary of Public Works in the Cabinet of President Montt. From 1895 to 1906 he served as Chilean consul-general in Japan. In 1906 he returned to Chile, and was elected a member of the Chamber of Deputies. He served in Congress until 1915.

Both delegates speak English fluently.

BACK BROKEN, HAS CHILD

LONDON, April 14.—A woman has died in the Lambeth district after living for three years with a broken spine. She was paralyzed from the waist down. Seven months after the accident in which her spine was broken the woman gave birth, painlessly, to a child which is still living in excellent health.

The Same Puzzle Picture Will Be Used Every Day. The Contest Closes at 6 P.M. May 10, 1922

... RULES OF CONTEST ...

1st. Any man, woman or child who is not connected with the Evening Express or Glendale Press in any capacity, or who is not a member of an employee's family, may compete.

2nd. All answers will be divided into three classes. The contestant may compete in only one class (though he may qualify for a higher class any time after sending in the required number of subscriptions to raise him to the higher class).

CLASS A. Open to all, anyone may compete.

CLASS B. Open to those who send in one new 6 months' subscription to the Evening Express and Glendale Press, payment to be made in advance.

CLASS C. Open to those who send in two new 6 months' subscriptions to the Evening Express and Glendale Press, or one new yearly subscription paid in advance.

3rd. The contest closes May 10, 1922, at 6 p. m. All answers must be deposited in the Evening Express Main Office at 236 S. Hill St., or bear the postmark on letter not later than that hour.

4th. Answers may either be deposited in the contest box at the Evening Express Office at 236 S. Hill St., Los Angeles, or mailed to the PUZZLE MANAGER, Circulation Department, Evening Express, Los Angeles, Cal., or Glendale Press.

5th. All lists of names must be written on one side of the paper, numbering the sheets consecutively. Write your own name and address on each page in upper right hand corner.

6th. Only words appearing in English Dictionaries will be considered, slang and obsolete words are barred.

Only Words Beginning With "S" Will Count

Where plural is used, singular cannot be used also, and vice-versa. Only names of objects or parts of objects will count. Words of the same spelling may be used only once, even though they apply to the different objects. The object may be named only once, even if more than one of the same kind appears in the picture. Parts of the object may be named in addition to the object itself. Do not use hyphenated words (words separated with a hyphen in standard dictionaries). Do not use compound words unless same are spelt as same word in standard dictionary. (The contestant cannot invent words by joining together two or more words.)

7th. The answer having nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "S" will be awarded first prize, irrespective of whether the contestant has sent in one or more subscribers. This means that lists will be judged on the merits entirely. The amount of the prize awarded will depend on the class you have qualified for by sending now, one or two subscriptions.

8th. More than one person may co-operate in submitting lists of names, but only one prize will be awarded to one household or group who have been working together.

9th. In the event of a tie for any prize the full amount of the prize will be given to each tied participant.

10th. A committee of well-known Los Angeles people having no connection with the Los Angeles Evening Express will act as judges. Their names will be announced in a few days. The judges will use Webster's New International Dictionary as their reference. The participants agree to accept all decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.

11th. The judges will meet May 11th and the announcement of prize winners of the best list of "S" words submitted as determined by them will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

12th. All questions or correspondence regarding the observation puzzle should be addressed to the PUZZLE MANAGER, Circulation Department, Los Angeles Evening Express.

"$14.93 A WEEK, CAN YOU BEAT IT?" ASK NELLIE

".90 Cents a Day Won't Buy Sundaes Alone," Says She

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Nellie van Sternberg, 23, brunette, who prides herself on her ability to tickle a typewriter with the same skill with which she powders her tip-tilted nose, snapped her gum viciously today.

She waved aloft a copy of the latest budget for working girls presented to the State Welfare Commission.

"So I gotta live on $14.93 a week," she exclaimed.

"Ta, ta, ta, how grand and glorious."

She knit her brows—that's the only kind of knitting Nellie does—and read down the list.

"Lokkit me," she sputtered. "They say I must eat only 90 cents worth of food today and honest to goodness that won't buy chocolate eclairs and strawberry sundaes. What am I going to do for toast and eggs." She went on a little farther.

"Sixteen dollars a month for a room—that's not bad. I'll show that to father. He thinks I ought to pay $20.

"Hee, hee, here's another one, petticoats $4. That helps some." She chuckled and then looked down at a fairly short skirt.

"You notice me wastin' any money on petticoats?" she asked.

The reporter hadn't noticed—of course. He was a very poor reporter.

"We'll just save that and add it to this $4 for stockings. That'll make $8 for stockings. Let's see, three pair of $2.50 silks. Poor old ankles, you've gotta wear cotton or nothin' when nobody's lookin'" she mused.

"How does they get this way," she shrieked and fell back into gales of laughter. "I'll take off $2.50 worth of bloomers at night and put on three six bits worth of nighties, and oh how I will sleep. Say, kid, you don't know much about it unless you're married, but I'm here to tell you that bloomers that cost $2.25 a year—well, if you're ever a girl, don't you ever try to wear 'em."

Nellie read on to herself:

"Dress, $20; apron, $1.50; coat, $15, (yes, I'll give sister that for her old one), suit $25, (some suit); hats $10, (that's what my eastern bonnet cost); gloves $3, (must think I'm a mechanic); handkerchiefs, $1.20, (that wouldn't take care of one good cold); kimona, $1, (Oh Heavens); waists $10; rubbers, 85 cents, (since when?); repairing shoes, $3, (I don't get mine repaired, just throw 'em away); umbrella, $1.50, (some awning); carfare, $36.50, (that's O. K. if I hook enough rides); dentist and doctor, $25, (deuce with 'em); toilet sundries, $7.50, (guess I'll have to use laundry soap); amusements, $12, (I should worry—Harry takes me to the show); vacation, $25, (say, that's the best one of all.)

"Well, I'll be [illegible] not a darned cent for chewing gum, and say, how does these guys think a girl can pound a typewriter all day without a chew. Oh, bunk. These guys want to hire a girl that's just naturally dowdy to begin with."

The Industrial Welfare Commission, however, doesn't entirely agree with Nellie. The ninety cents a day for board is the chief obstacle to the adoption of the $14.93 weekly minimum as the working girl's budget to be used in connection with the readjustment of the State minimum wage rulings.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD RECORD MEETING

Two Hundred and Fifty Attend, Including Delegates Other Lodges

The Glendale Odd Fellows lodge held one of the largest meetings in its history Thursday evening, when about 250 were present, the audience including not only local members but delegations from Van Nuys, San Fernando and Burbank.

The initiatory degree was put on for 11 candidates and in connection with the ceremonies, speeches were made by representatives of lodges in New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Colorado, North Dakota and Canada.

Following the work of the evening a banquet was enjoyed and adjournment did not take place until after midnight.

GATEWAY MARKET BIDS FOR TRADE

C. Caswell, proprietor of the White Star market, 121 East Broadway, and the Gateway meat market, South Brand and San Fernando road, is offering to give one-half pound of Swift's bacon with every Swift's Premium ham that is purchased at either of these markets on Saturday. The Caswell markets are among the leading meat establishments in Glendale and are always "right there" when it comes to good meats and low prices.

For Saturday this firm has an appealing list of specials in the way of meats and poultry, and everything is guaranteed to be strictly fresh.

were then invited to join the speakers of the evening on the platform, where a large flag had been hung against the rear wall, to emphasize the patriotic purpose of the scout movement. The group who thus faced the audience included President Charles L. Chandler, Vice President and Chairman of Finance Charles B. Guthrie, Second Vice President and Chairman of Court of Honor W. C. Wattles, Sixth Vice President and Chairman of Civil Service C. L. Suits of Eagle Rock, Treasurer A. R. Eastman, A. T. Cowan, Peter L. Ferry, C. H. Toll, A. A. Barton, Dr. Harry Crawford of Eagle Rock, Roy B. Sanders, assistant scoutmaster of Eagle Rock; Robert M. Searle, assistant scoutmaster of troop No. 1, Glendale; Richard Smith and M. E. Hill of Tujunga; Don S. Wieman, scoutmaster of troop No. 1, Tujunga; L. F. Collins and E. B. Thomas, scoutmasters of troops Nos. 1, 2, and 3 of Burbank; F. O. Rentsch, scoutmaster of troop No. 1, Eagle Rock; Robert N. Taylor, scoutmaster of troop No. 1, Glendale; Benjamin Robison, scoutmaster of troop No. 2, Glendale; Frank C. Ayars, scoutmaster of troop No. 3, Glendale.

Scout Gordon Bevans welcomed the audience with a snappy speech in which he reminded the parents present: "We are your boys and we will soon be men and called upon to work with you as fellow citizens. We will be better citizens because of our training. We get the habit of wearing a smile. We are trained to develop strong, healthy bodies, to take care of ourselves out of doors, to keep ourselves physically fit, mentally awake and morally straight. No scout who has kept the scout spirit has ever gone wrong. Help us to attain the really good things in life, character and good citizenship." The speech was received with great applause and gave the meeting just the send-off it needed. Three cheers were then given for the council, led by Ray Proctor, more cheers for the troop leaders, and then the "America" yell.

Harold Benner, scout executive, introduced with a word of appreciation Tallman H. Trask, scout executive of the Pasadena district, who reviewed the great development of the scout movement in California during the past six years. Said he:

"Our organization is only a baby as yet but in a few years we are going to see the effects of scouting in Glendale and throughout the country. When these scouts come into public life those twelve scout laws are bound to tell in business and all departments of life."

Dr. Crawford of Eagle Rock was then introduced and in turn introduced Stuart W. French, chairman of the twelfth regional committee, who was delegated to present the charter.

In beginning his brief but effective talk, Mr. French announced to the scouts: "I am only a tenderfoot and I want to know who you are." He then asked in turn the tenderfeet, second-class, first-class, star and eagle scouts to stand, and complimented them on the showing made. Said he: "I have been asked to define the dividing line between the Verdugo Hills and other councils. There is none. We are all scouts."

He told of his pride in the boy scout stationed in the lobby of the La Salle hotel in Chicago during the convention who served as a bureau of information to direct 300 delegates who had headquarters there, declaring "in his neat uniform and splendid bearing he was like a diamond amid the gaudy surroundings of that ornate hotel."

He told of a thrilling baseball story which carried a practical lesson every scout could apply. Coming to the charter he was to present, he called it "the magna charter of the Verdugo Hills council." "I am here," he said, "to present it to the council, but you boy scouts have the big responsibility. The council works for you but you work for the glory and honor of boy scouts. Always remember if your uniform looks a bit slipshod you are putting a blot on the boy scouts. If you can get another boy into scouting, it is your duty to do it. You eagle scouts are the best equipped scouts in the world to carry on scouting with the younger boys."

Council members were reminded of their responsibilities, saying, "It is easy to establish a council but the thing I am afraid of is the lag, the difficulty of keeping up the pep. You must keep behind these scout troops all the time, the work must not be done in a slipshod way. I do not expect Glendale to lag. Your city is going so fast you can't see for the dust and I expect your scout council to go, too."

At the conclusion of his talk there were cheers for Mr. French, led by Dallas Kalbaugh.

In accepting the charter on behalf of the council and the troops, President Chandler said in part:

"This is a beautiful document. It contains something you will not S. iWeman, gave the scout oath; or the wording. It is a contrast between you and the 600,000 other scouts in the United States who live up to the principles of scouting and keep the organization what it is, to do a good turn daily and be faithful to God and your country. More is expected of California that any other part of the country, and more is expected of Southern California that of California in general, and when you come to the Verdugo Hills, all kinds of things are demanded, so you see what you scouts are up against—a contract to discharge not only with the 600,000 other scouts but to discharge it in such a way that it will be a credit to California, Southern California and Verdugo Hills, which is a big undertaking. You did not answer Mr. French as to whether you would do it. I want you to answer now. Will you do it?"

A big, unanimous "YES" was the reply of the boys.

The scout program of the evening was then given, the troops coming to the platform to do their stunts as called. Troop No. 1 of Tujunga, under Scoutmaster Don S. Wieman, gave the scout oath; troops 1, 2 and 3 of Burbank under Scoutmasters L. F. Collins and E. B. Thomas, gave the international scout laws; troop No. 1 of Eagle Rock under Scoutmaster F. O. Rentsch gave an exhibition of knot tieing.

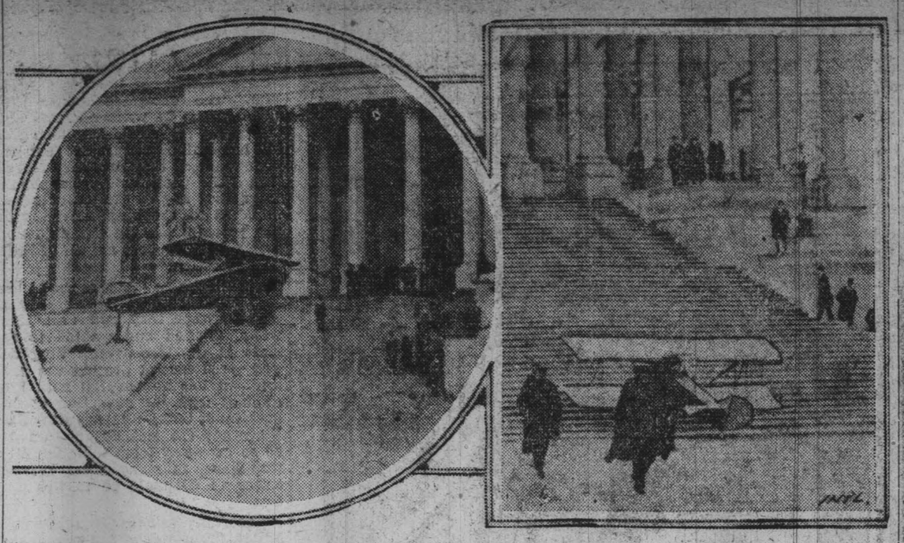
Quite an elaborate stunt, picturing camp life, was put on by troop No. 1 under Scoutmaster Robert N. Taylor, who appeared as Father Time and gave a history of the troop, which he declared is the oldest active troop in the United States. He paid a fine tribute to Scout Executive Benner who is one of its graduates. The troop put on a very natural dialogue with Herbert Bruck making the fire and tossing the pancakes, Walter Sullivan leading the songs to ukulele accompaniment, and Robert Searle acting as bugler.

Troop No. 2, under Scoutmaster Benjamin Robison, and Assistant Scoutmaster Benjamin Robison, Jr., presented a characteristic scout meeting with Assistant Scoutmaster Benjamin Robinson, Jr., leading, and David Roberts as bugler.

A demonstration of entertaining scout games was then given by Glendale troop No. 3 under Scoutmaster Frank Ayars.

The program ended with all the scouts assembled on the platform, and taps played by the buglers as the curtains fell together.

AIRPLANE LANDS IN CAPITOL PLAZA FOR FIRST TIME



For the first time in history an airplane has landed in front of the United States Capitol at Washington. Lawrence Sperry, driving one of the smallest planes in existence, did this stunt. In trying to stop the plane, Sperry was forced to drive his craft part way up the steps of the Capitol on the Senate wing side. Here you have two views of the plane as it landed.

CHARGES FRAUD IN MARRIAGE

GENEVA, April 14. — Captain Franz Oserheim, a Hungarian army officer, to trying to divorce his wife, who impersonated her sister at the altar. Capt. Oserheim was to marry the second of three sisters named Brunner, at Bregenz, Lake Constance. The eldest sister, however, loved him and determined to marry him. On the wedding day she doped her sister and, heavily veiled, went through the marriage ceremony with the captain. When they returned to the hotel she confessed the deception and declared her love for the captain, who left alone for Hungary. Both are Catholics, and Capt. Oserheim will have difficulty in obtaining a divorce.

COUNCIL ORDERS IMPROVEMENT OF CHESTNUT ST.

Hears Protests and Petitions for Various Purposes in the City

Hearing of protests against the improving of Chestnut street, between Central avenue and Glendale was taken up by the city council last night. There were no written protests against this work received, and as there was no one in the audience who did not favor the work, the city attorney was instructed to start legal proceedings for the improving of this stretch of road.

A written protest representing 63 per cent of the property fronting on Lomita avenue, between Central avenue and Glendale avenue, was received and for this reason the improvement proceedings were abandoned. The superintendent of plant and production was instructed to bring in the necessary resolution of intention for the laying of cast iron water pipe along this street.

The matter of the hearing of protests against the making of Jackson street, between Lexington and Doran streets a first class residential district was taken up, and as there was a little misunderstanding in this matter action was deferred for one week.

A communication was received from the chamber of commerce of Covina inviting the mayor and the city council to be its guests on Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29, at a high and grammar school exposition which will be held there. The invitation was accepted.

A communication was received from the W. C. T. U. of Glendale commending the council on its action in passing ordinance No. 551, which makes it unlawful to sell or use intoxicating liquors in this city. This communication was filed.

The firm of Kjergaard & Mullaly asked permission to throw back in the form of acreage a tract of land which it subdivided some time ago. This matter was referred to the city attorney to ascertain whether or not the city could do this.

The Neale & Gregg Hardware company protested to the board against the way the garbage and rubbish is being collected in Glendale and cited several matters of misconduct on the part of the garbage men. The communication was filed.

A petition was received from Mrs. C. G. Putman and others requesting that Glendale avenue between Lexington and Verdugo road be set aside as a first-class residential district. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

The application of C. M. Retts to erect a house closer than 25 feet at 1128 North Columbus, which was laid over from a previous meeting, was taken up and the permit was granted providing the house was set on a line with the home on the next lot.

The application of Harry Tobias to erect a fruit stand on Los Feliz road between San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific tracks, which was laid over from the previous meeting was taken up, and the fire chief was instructed to see if he recommends that this section be taken from the fire district.

An ordinance establishing commercial districts Nos. 5, 6 and 7, was introduced and read for the first time.

An ordinance requiring bonds for officers and employees of the city was offered and declared read for the first time.

A resolution adopting certain assessment diagrams in the engineer's office was adopted.

An ordinance changing Milford and Lexington, between Colorado and Pacific, into a first class residential district, was taken up and declared read for the first time.

TAX METERS SAYS GLENDALE AVE. ASSOCIATION

R. M. McGee Instructed to Present Plan For Emergency City Revenue

Charles W. Ingledue, president, sat at the head and Herman W. Nelson, secretary, at the foot of a long table in a private dining room of the White Inn where the newly organized Glendale Avenue Advancement Association met for luncheon Wednesday. Covers were laid for Councilman Clarence Kimlin, who was a guest, for R. M. McGee, Mrs. Mabel Tight, John Lampert, Charles Stanley, Mr. Hazelton, Mr. McLeod, Mr. Brown, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Addison, Mr. Perch, Mr. Mercer and several others.

The dinner served by Mrs. Jack White was a very good one and put the diners in a humor to give whatever time might be necessary to the transaction of the business to come before the organization.

The proposed business tax was the initial theme of debate, called forth by the report of the committee headed by Chairman Brown concerning what took place at the hearing before the city council last Thursday night. Mr. Brown being unable to continue as chairman because of duties on the hotel committee, Mr. R. M. McGee was appointed in his stead and with his fellow committeemen Mercer and McLeod was instructed to submit to the city council a proposition to impose a tax of 25c for each meter in use as a more equitable means of raising money to meet the financial shortage of the city government than the imposition of a business tax.

Councilman Kimlin was called upon and expressed himself as very favorable to this proposition. At the present time, he said, there are nearly 8000 light meters and 6500 water meters. An assessment of this kind would distribute the burden whereas the other plan would touch about 1200 persons.

The Credit Men's Association, he said, had asked for a statement of the city's finance and this would mean practically an audit of the books at an expense of several hundreds of dollars. He wondered if it would not do just as well to wait until the close of the fiscal year, June 30, when the statements would naturally be made. The books are open to the inspection of the public at any time, he declared. Later Mr. Hazelton suggested that if the Credit Men's Association desired an audit of the city's books it might have one made and assume the expense. No recommendation along that line was voted, however. In concluding his talk Mr. Kimlin expressed the opinion that the ordinance would not be passed that night by the council.

Mr. Nelson said he thought the plan indorsed by Mr. Kimlin would distribute the burden more equally than the business tax. "You might thing," said he, "that the city had been going behind only during the last year whereas I, who have been working with the older trustees, know that a condition has existed for the last five years when the city has been short of funds at the end of the fiscal year. The present councilmen have had to overcome that in addition to the great increase in the demands made upon them for police protection and a thousand and one other things. Citizens should take these things into consideration and not feel that the present councilmen have spent the money. We must figure that the great increase in population has increased the cost of running the city."

Mr. Kimlin followed up Mr. Nelson's talk saying. "The expenses of the city of Glendale are increasing rapidly. One thing for which there is a crying need at the present time is increase in our police force. We now have just three policemen to be on duty at one time for a city of 25,000 and it is not surprising that we have robberies. We feel that we should have ten or twelve additions to the force. The engineer's department is one in which the increase shows. When the present council took office the first of July, 1921, we had four men in that department. Today we have about twenty-three because there is so much street improvement and other work to be done. Rapid growth brings penalties. The biggest job the council has is to get out of the way of progress and not be a retarding force.

Mr. Stanley suggested a 25c increase in the water rate, but as the emergency is regarded as only temporary, the proposition was opposed.

Mrs. Tight as chairman and Mr. Nelson as a member, stated that the hotel committee is doing good work and would have an important meeting that night but was not yet prepared to report.

Mr. Stewart on behalf of the committee appointed to confer with the Glendale Avenue Improvement Association of which Mr. Harry Levy is president, said it had not been able to act because the other association had not held a meeting. Mr. Ingledue announced that Mr. Levy's association had called a mass meeting for next Wednesday evening at the High School and Mr. Nelson, as secretary, was requested to notify members asking them to attend that meeting.

Mr. Brown, Mr. Stewart and some others felt it would be a mistake to delay the circulation of petitions for the improvement of Glendale avenue from Lexington to San Fernando road inasmuch as the council had asked for action, and the association voted instructions to the committee to proceed with the petitions. Mr. Stewart stating that the sentiment was in favor of a heavier, more expensive pavement for the portion of the street from Lexington to Colorado than for the portion south to San Fernando boulevard.

On behalf of the transportation committee Mr. Stanley reported a talk with a railroad official who informed him that negotiations are now going on with two large corporations to take the track over and electrolize it. He expressed the conviction that electrolization is certain to come but cannot be hurried at this time. Mr. Nelson said he had been negotiating for meetings with officials of the Union Pacific and the Glendale-Montrose Railroads which would probably be held soon, and the general outlook along that line is encouraging.

Concerning the large mail box for newspapers and packages asked for in the neighborhood of Glendale and Broadway, Mr. Nelson read a letter from Postmaster Jackson stating the boxes had been ordered and the request of the association would be granted as soon as the shipment is received.

Relative to a post office in the neighborhood of Broadway and Glendale, Mr. Stanley reported a conference with Postmaster Jackson who said that as soon as the association had a definite location and proposition to put up to the department at Washington, with facts and figures showing the need, he would be glad to forward it to Washington and do what he could to secure the office.

Mr. Ingledue disapproved of moving too fast." "We want a real post office," he said," "something different from what we have had in the past that is not a side issue of some other business, a post office that will be entirely under the control of the post office department."

Mr. Nelson read a letter from Postmaster Jackson confirming what Mr. Stanley had reported, and in commenting on the matter said he believed a canvas of the places of business in that part of the city interested in having a post office there would show stamp purchases greater than that of the office on Brand boulevard. "With this condition," said he, "I see no reason why we cannot get attention from the government."

Messrs Hazleton, Lampert and Woodbury, were continued as a committee to confer with the East Glendale Welfare Association at its meeting the first Monday in May, it being understood that its members favor a union with the Glendale Avenue Advancement Association. With that understanding, Messrs Hazleton, Lampert and Woodbury, Sherer and Addison were named as a permanent membership committee.

The association also voted Herman Nelson into the treasurership.

When the committee adjourned it was with the understanding that it meet again next week Thursday noon at the White Inn when a vote will be taken relative to its regular meeting times and the assessment of dues to meet the expense of sending out notices, etc.

conditions purporting to be the cause of said order can be investigated by an honorable impartial body or until the government can provide fit accommodations for those now in contract hospitals besides the hundreds in this vicinity who are entitled to and who would hospitalize if there was a fit place where they would be permitted to go. They are being treated as prisoners of war, not as victors, and the action of the Veterans' Bureau to order a hurried removal from a contract hospital where the boys are contented with location, service and a homelike atmosphere to a government hospital objectionable to them or to another contract hospital that to them and most impartial observers are inferior is a matter that all men of justice will demand investigated.

"Trusting that you will comply with this request, we are,

"Glendale Chamber of Commerce,
"Jas. M. Rhoades, Secretary."

That to Senator Johnson was:

"Senator Hiram Johnson,
"Washington, D. C.

"We have just wired President Harding to hold up an order closing Thornycroft hospital in Glendale, where thirty-nine disabled soldiers who served in the late war are inmates with this dreaded malady brought on by this government. These boys feel at home in this location. They all desire to remain here and it is a crime of this government to attempt to take them away. The atmospheric conditions in this place are ideal. They are gaining in health here and to take them away against their will to some government hospital or other contract hospital where they would not be contented is another crime. This chamber of commerce consisting of a thousand business men enters a strenuous protest against this order until it can be investigated by an impartial honest body of men who have the interests of these boys at heart. May we appeal to you to confer with President Harding and stop this order until conditions can be investigated?

"Glendale Chamber of Commerce,
"Jas. M. Rhoades, Secretary."

Several months ago there was some talk at the Veterans' Bureau office in Los Angeles relative to the closing of the Thornycroft Sanitarium as a contract hospital for the tuberculosis patients under the care of the United States public health service.

Shortly after the report was circulated that there was a possibility of the institution being closed, a representative of the Disabled Veterans of the World War in a conference with Colonel Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau was assured that the order for removal of government patients from the hospital would be delayed until August 31.

Three days ago an order was received ordering the hospital closed as a government institutions on May 11. Yesterday afternoon an order was received from Major Louis T. Grant, manager of the 12th district of veterans' bureau, ordering all government patients out of Thornycroft by noon Saturday, April 15.

It is said that the statement was made that transportation would be supplied for those of the patients who could not walk and were considered as bed patients but that the others would have to walk or leave the best way they could. The office said that on and after the date set the public health service would not be responsible for the expense of keeping the patients in this hospital.

This order for instant removal will work considerable of a hardship on many of the patients in as much as many of them have moved their families to Glendale in order to be near them; several of them have purchased homes for their families here and many have bought automobiles and other properties that cannot be disposed of immediately.

According to a delegation of former service men and patients at the hospital, the men and women quartered there at present are satisfied to remain at Thornycroft, and of the 39 patients there are 37 who have made the statement that they want to stay.

This delegation accompanied by William G. Wilson, a public spirited citizen of Los Angeles, who is known in all government hospitals as a friend of the disabled soldiers, called on James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and stated the case of the closing of the hospital to him. The delegates asked that their names be withheld from any statement regarding the closing of the hospital, or the protest that has been made as they said they feared that if the Veterans' Bureau should learn that any of the patients had objected to the bing moved, that the patients making the objection would lose a part if not all of their compensation.

The delegates said that they were speaking for all of the men and women, when they said that they were satisfied and wanted to remain at the Thornycroft hospital. They said that at present the government has no hospital near Los Angeles with the exception of the hospital at Camp Kearney near San Diego and the men do not want to be so far away from their families who have, in many cases moved, either to Glendale or to Los Aneles.

According to Mrs. Nan Maxwell Miller, proprietor of the sanitarium there was at one time 61 government patients in the hospital. A campaign of withdrawing one man a day from the Thornycroft institution was started. In reply to inquiries as to the cause of these removals a letter, dated February 9, 1922, of which a copy is in the possession of Mrs. Martin, written by Major Grant who has charge of the 12th district, to K. J. Scudder, manager of the sub-district office of the Veterans' Welfare Bureau in Los Angeles said in part: "The present method of withdrawing one man a day from this institution will be discontinued and no removals from the sanitarium will be made except in accordance with the conditions as set forth in paragraph two of this letter."

Paragraph two, referred to said in part: "No man will be removed from the sanitarium during this period except those whom the medical board may deem to have reached a maximum in medical improvement or such cases where their removal is seemed best."

Another letter written by C. R Forbes, director of the United States veterans' bureau, to F. McL. Simmons of the United States senate on the same date, stated that the bureau did not intend to close the sanitarium at Thornycroft to government patients. This letter in part said:

"However, so far as the Thornycroft sanitarium is concerned, the district manager of the twelfth district has informed the central office that it will be necessary for him to utilize the services of this institution for some time to come because there are at present no suitable government facilities available."

It is said that the United States public health service under the recent Sweet bill is following a policy of removing all patients of government hospitals from contract institutions whenever it is possible and practicable.

A letter dated March 3, 1921, from B. W. Brown, surgeon in charge of the United States public health service, to the superintendent of Thornycroft, said in part:

"I have had an interview with the Red Cross, Miss McGuire of the Tuberculosis association and the president of the Disabled Veterans and I explained to them fully the valuable assistance that Thornycroft is rendering me and the boys, and emphasized the fact that we do not want, under any circumstances, to discontinue your institution. They have promised to cooperate with you in every way possible to help you meet the situation satisfactorily to all parties and I believe as a result of this conference that, instead of being criticized, you will be helped by these organizations."

During the past few months there have been several visits to the hospital by various organizations, civic, county and private, for the purpose of investigating conditions in the institution as regards sanitation and care received by government patients. In practically every case a favorable report has been turned in. Mrs. Miller said that not so very long ago the county grand jury inspected the hospital and through the foreman of that organization said that as a body and after investigating thoroughly, they could find no cause for complaint.

Mrs. Miller said that the government sent Dr. Hanna to inspect the institution and after a thorough and minute examination turned in a 100 per cent report in favor of the hospital. Mrs. Miller said that in a later conversation with Major Wemple of the veterans' bureau, the major said, "That report of Dr. Hanna's is going to hurt you." Mrs. Miller said that this statement was made in the presence of witnesses and after sh ehad told Major Wemple that she had learned that Dr. Hanna had turned in a favorable report. Mrs. Miller said that before making the above statement Major Wemple had admitted that the favorable report had been turned in.

Mrs. Miller said today that practically all of the cases now being cared for at the hospital as government charges are advanced cases that other government contract hospitals had refused admission. It is also said that at present in the sanitarium are several boys who have been unable to secure hospitalization from the government and are being kept at the institution free of charge. Others, it is said, are being kept there at a very nominal charge because they cannot secure hospitalization from the government at present and are in need of treatment.

MISS LOIS WEBB IS SHOWERED BY FRIENDS

Two Receptions for Bride to Be of Ben W. Sherwood

Bridal showers, attesting the popularity of Miss Lois Webb, mark these farewell days of her single state, which are to end May 2, when she becomes the wife of B. W. Sherwood.

On Monday evening Miss Webb was the guest at a charming china shower given by Mrs. Marshall Pearson and Miss Pearl Pollock at the home of the latter, 115 Arden avenue.

A color schem of yellow and lavender was used throughout the rooms, and each guest was presented with a tiny basket filled with candies. Various games were enjoyed, Miss Elizabeth Allen winning first prize in a guessing contest, and Mrs. Dolliver Webb winning second.

During the evening Miss Webb was presented with many beautiful pieces of china with the good wishes of her many friends. A dainty refreshment course was then served.

Guests included Miss Harriett Barnes, Miss Edith Haggman, Miss Ila Mae McClammy, Miss Helen Vrebenburgh, Miss Elizabeth Allen, Miss Elaine Hudson, Miss Helen Sherwood, Miss Jane Snyder, Mrs. Jimmie Current, Mrs. Doliver Webb, Mrs. Jack Jenkins and the joint hostesses, Mrs. Marshall Pearson and Miss Pearl Pollock.

Miss Dorothy Jane Bolt of 611 North Central avenue entertained Thursday evening at a delightful miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Webb.

A very dainty color scheme of green and pink was used, being carried out in the decorations and through the refreshment course, which was served at the close of the evening, by the hostesses.

Games and music were enjoyed throughout the evening. One especially interesting contest was that of chewing gum and then molding a portrait of Miss Webb's fiance. Miss Ila Mae McClammy received first prize for this. Miss Webb was then presented with many pretty and useful miscellaneous gifts.

Invited guests were Miss Gladys Peckham, Miss Mira Johns, Miss Harriett Barnes, Miss Edith Haggman, Miss Ila Mae McClammy, Miss Helen Vrebenburgh, Miss Elizabeth Allen, Miss Elaine Hudson, Miss Helen Sherwood, Miss Jane Snyder, Mrs. Jimmie Current, Mrs. Doliver Webb, Mrs. Jack Jenkins, Mrs. Marshall Pearson, Miss Pearl Pollock and the hostess, Miss Dorothy Jane Bolt.

ST. MARK'S GUILD CLOSES ALL DAY SESSIONS

Annual Bazaar and Food Sale Planned for Saturday, June 3

The last of the all-day meetings of St. Mark's guild was held Thursday, opening at 10 a. m. A "pot luck" luncheon was served at noon and at 2:30 a business session was held.

It was decided to hold the annual bazaar and food sale on Saturday, June 3, at Downing & Cox nursery, 118 South Brand.

Mrs. Helen Anderson of Ypsilanti, Mich., known to the guild as "Mother Anderson," who has been spending the past six months with her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Bassett, secretary of the guild, thanked the ladies for their hospitality and kindness to her while here. The ladies of the guild gave "Mother" Anderson a standing vote of thanks for the work she has done in the guild. Mrs. Anderson, who is 83 years old, has only missed two guild meetings while in Southern California. She is leaving here Tuesday via the Santa Fe for her eastern home.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The regular all-day meeting of the ladies' aid society of Central Christian church was held Thursday in the church bungalow. A luncheon was served at noon to about 30 ladies.

Plans were made for their ready-to-wear sale, and it was decided that they would postpone it until after the dedication of the new church, which is expected to take place June 4.

The afternoon was spent in finishing three comforts and sewing on three quilts, as well as other sewing. This society takes orders for children's dresses and they are very reasonable. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Daugherty, president of the society.

Cora Hauson-Olson, colorature soprano of Portland, Ore., who is visiting Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Hauson of Eagle Rock, will sing "Light's Glittering Morn" in the First Lutheran church at the Easter morning service.

BREAD SAUCE

One and one-half cups milk, one-third cup fine stale bread crumbs, one onion, five cloves, few grains cayene, one-third teaspoon salt, three tablespoons shortening, one-half cup coarse stale bread crumbs. Cook milk twenty-five minutes in double boiler with fine bread crumbs and onion stuck with cloves. Remove onion, add salt, cayene and one-half the shortening. Pour sauce around timbales and sprinkle with coarse crumbs browned in remaining shortening.

WINDSOR EGGS

Arrange four poached eggs on circular pieces of buttered toast, sprinkle with one and one-half tablespoon saulted chopped mushrooms caps. Four around windsor sauce and sprinkle sauce with one-half teaspoon finely chopped parsely and one-half teaspoon finely cut chives. SAUCE—Melt three tablespoons butter, add three tablespoons flour, and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, three-fourths cup hig[illegible]oned chicken stock and [illegible] cup cream. Bring to the [illegible] point and add one-fourth [illegible] salt, one-eighth teaspoon [illegible] and the yolk of one egg [illegible] beaten.

SWISS SALA[illegible]ING

One-half cup bo[illegible]y, yolks of three eggs, [illegible] teaspoon salt, paprika, on[illegible]oon lemon juice, one-hal[illegible] whipped to a froth. Add all [illegible]nts to egg yolks, then stir into boiled honey. Cook one minute. Beat at intervals.

EASTER MOTIF IN PRESBYTERIAN DINNER

Westminster Guild Gives Dinner at Church to Mark Season

The Westminster Guild of the Presbyterian church had an Easter dinner at the church Thursday evening. The Easter color motif was carried out in the decorations of the table as well as the menu. A fine chicken dinner was served at 6:30 to the jolly crowd of hungry girls.

After the dinner a short business meeting was held, presided over by the president, Marjorie Smith. Mrs. Nelson, one of the patronesses, gave an interesting review on the book that the Guild is taking up for mission study.

Following the business meeting came the social hour in which Miss Anita Fletcher gave some very clever readings. Then came the initiatio nof the new members which caused a great deal of laughter. Although all came out safe and sound, Maurine and Phyllis Baker had charge of the initiation. The following girls were initiated into the Guild: Misses Linda Goertz, Virginia Eastman, Agnes Tupper, Lillian Crisswell, Helen Jaquiss, Anna Levy, Gladys Levy, Anna Triol and Virginia Frey.

The girls departed at 10 o'clock declaring the meeting a great success.

Those at the dinner were Dr. W. E. Edmonds and Rev. Louis Tinning, guests of the Guild; Mrs. Lennox and Mrs. Nelson, the patronesses, and the following girls: Misses Anita Fletcher, Zoe Thompson, Maurine Baker, Mary McDill, Agnes Tupper, Linda Goertz, Virginia Eastman, Phyllis Baker, Josephine Rettburg, Virginia Frey, Hazel Appleton, Lillian Crisswell, Ethel Worthington, Helen Jaquiss, Ella Dockton, Anna Levy, Gladys Levy, Marjorie Smith, Marie Maier, Louise Daugherty, Margaret Majors and Martha Eilers.

GABRIELLE BONDAUX GIVES EASTER EGG PARTY

Gabrielle Bondaux entertained Thursday afternoon with a delightful Easter egg party at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, 306 North Central avenue. Her mother Mrs. Heloise Bondaux, assisted in entertaining the guests.

A pleasant afternoon was devoted to hunting Easter eggs and playing various games, after which delicious refreshments were served. A color scheme of purple and yellow was carried out with pansies and little baskets filled with Easter eggs at each place.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH PRAYER MEETING

The last prayer service preceding Easter will be held this afternoon from 2 to 3 p. m. in the Christian church. They have held two other meetings on Monday and Wednesday afternoons and a very good attendance was present. After the prayer service the ladies went out calling on new members and prospective ones.

The program for this afternoon is in charge of Mrs. O. L. Kilborn.

BAPTIST WOMEN HOLD AN ALL-DAY MEETING

An all-day meeting of the Women's Union was held at the Baptist church Thursday. Sewing was done in the morning, as usual, and immediately preceding the luncheon a short prayer service was led by Rev. Holmes, who has been conducting the evangelistic meetings in the church.

Following luncheon a business session was held with Mrs. E. E. Ford presiding. Plans for the coming year were outlined and committees named. The collection in the mite boxes was taken and devotionals were read.

Mrs. Linnie Carl then addressed the meeting in regard to educational work for girls and also read one of James Whitcomb Riley's poems.

Mrs. Park Arnold and Mrs. J. Ray Bentley contributed a vocal duet.

CLASSES UNITE ON CHICKEN BASIS

The Baracca class of the First Methodist church and the Philathea class held a delightful chicken banquet on Thursday evening in the church parlors. Nearly every member of each class was present, making a total of about 50 guests.

During the course of the dinner, several clever toasts were given and the remainder of the evening was devoted to games.

Miss Lois Percy led the Philatheas and G. Edwin Murphy was the leader of the Baraccas and it proved to be a very lively evening.

MISS ALICE FRANK ENTERTAINS HER BRIDESMAIDS

Bride to Be of Harry A. James Has Merry Time

Miss Alice Frank, 1558 East Wilson avenue, whose marriage to Harry A. James will take place April 18, entertained her bridesmaids and maids of honor at a delightful luncheon and afternoon of music on Thursday. A color scheme of green and white was used, very clever place cards having been made up by Mr. James. At each place were gifts for the wedding party.

After the luncheon several musical numbers were enjoyed, Mrs. Harrison W. Frank playing several piano selections.

The guests were Miss Lorraine Mitchell, maid of honor, Miss Barbara Mitchell, Miss Myrtle Pulliam, Miss Janie Mitchell and Miss Mildred Meeker, bridesmaids; Mrs. J. Whytock, Mrs. S. Gwaitney, Mrs. Harriett Frank, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Harrison W. Frank of Los Angeles.

In the evening at 8:30 Harry A. James entertained the best man and ushers at dinner at the Glen Inn. His guests were Mr. Van Valkenberg, best man; Harry Webb, head usher, Norman Whytock, John Smalley and Dr. J. Anderson, ushers. Harrison W. Frank of Los Angeles was also present.

About 8:30 both parties gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell on Kenneth road, where an informal evening of dancing was enjoyed, at the close of which refreshments were served.

WESTERN WRITER LOSES HIS PEP IN BUTTE

Only Six Poker Players There. They Clean Him

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Joseph Hergesheimer, novelist and short story writer, arrived here with the usual eastern sadness.

"I find that I have arrived from 15 to 50 years too late to see the real West," he declared. In hopes of seeing the real West I went to the wobliest spot I had heard of, Butte, Montana, and the most I could find in the whole town were six poker players. There weren't many of them, but they were good players, and cleaned me completely."

Hergesheimer declares that instead of being wild and wooly, the West is in many respects far ahead of the east in modernity.

"The West is the great heritage of America's future," he declared. The people of the West have the making of the country. It is a band of broad open spaces that is giving away to the last word in modern development."

But still, it's a great disappointment, Hergesheimer admits, not to be able to find dashing cowboys and red shirted miners, and grizzled prospectors on the streets of our principal cities.

GRAFONOLAS SALE WINS ATTENTION

A large number of Columbia grafonolas have already been sold during the sale that is now being held by the Kenny Music company, 203 North Brand boulevard. Since this sale opened, ten days ago, this firm has been right on its toes passing out machines of all styles. The local residents realize that the terms of $1 down and a small payment per month is something that they cannot secure every day and for this reason they are availing themselves of this opportunity to secure that much-desired talking machine.

Also, there are many people in Glendale who have never owned a grafonola and while these terms are being offered they feel that they cannot let another Easter pass without having some music in the home.

This music house is also having a great run this week on records produced by the Columbia company. The very latest records are now in stock, and as there are several Easter numbers in the collection, the record-buying public will be well taken care of.

TO AID FARMERS

Distribution of the $1,500,000 provided in the seed loan act signed by the President for relieving the acute distress of the farmers in the crop failure area of the Northwest, will begin immediately.

PARAMOUNT SHOW COMES TO THE T. D. & L.

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" Opens Tonight at the Playhouse

It is all right to say what one thinks about various questions encountered in the course of ordinary living, but once in a while there arises a question about which only the boldest and most radical dares to commit himself.

One day, while the company was making scenes for this new picture, each one of the more important members of the set was asked for an opinion as to how such a question should be answered. Here are a few of the answers:

James Cruze, who directed the picture, evaded the issue with a broad grin: "I don't dare to say 'yes,' because I'm married!"

T. Roy Barnes, who plays the leading role of Arthur Haviland, hinged his answer on a condition: "It all depends on the coffee!" observed T. Roy.

Lila Lee answered as follows: "I don't know, but I hope to some of these days."

Lois Wilson remarked: "Being single, I can safely answer, 'No!'"

ARBOR DAY MARKED AT EAGLE ROCK PARK

Fifth Anniversary Celebrated By Los Angeles Society

The fiftieth anniversary of the national Arbor Day was celebrated at Eagle Rock park on Monday, by the Los Angeles Audubon society and other nature and bird lovers. The large party met at the Church of the Angels at 9 a. m., and from there started out for observation of birds, one section under the leadership of Mary Miller, daughter of the famous Olive Thorne Miller, and another section conducted by Miss Helen S. Pratt of Eagle Rock, district federation chairman of birds and wild life, and a nature guide and teacher.

Meeting at the park, they enjoyed a picnic luncheon and listened to an address from Dr. Charles Edwards, professor of nature study in the Los Angeles public schools, on "Character Development Through Nature Study," also an interesting talk by Miss Pratt on "Wild Flower Preservation." A discussion on "Forestry: It's Interrelation With Conservation of Audubon Society, Birds and Wild Life," was participated in by Mrs. F. T. Bicknell, president of the Los Angeles Audubon society, Miss Mary Ann Miller of the Southwest Birdlovers' Club, Wilfred Smith, State president of the Audubon society; Dr. George Huntington, of the Pasadena Audubon society; Prof. Samuel Rittenhouse, Mrs. Irving I. Mitchell, and Mrs. Harriet Williams Myers.

NEW STORES OPEN AT EAGLE ROCK

The attractive new stores at the corner of South Central and West Ridgeway avenues are about to be occupied. A lady from New York, Mrs. Williamson, will conduct a dry goods store in one of the rooms, and a grocery and meat market will be opened in the other.

J. A. Mansergh has his new hardware store on South Central avenue, between Myrtle and Stanley avenues, all ready for business now.

The public is convenienced by the bread delivery wagon started last week by the proprietor of the Eagle Rock bakery. Not only Eagle Rock, but Rockdale and the district around Occidental college are served.

20TH CENTURY CLUB GIVES CARD PARTY

A jolly time was enjoyed by those who attended the card party given last Thursday night by the Women's Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. L. M. Maynard and Mrs. W. A. Sampson were the hostesses and provided generous and appetizing refreshments. The highest ladies' score in five hundred, was held by Mrs. Alfred P. Wolf, and she received a beautiful little jardinere, containing pansies. Her husband was awarded the gentleman's prize, and Mrs. Sampson, with a record low score, received the consolation gift.

WEDDING OF MISS EASTMAN TAKES PLACE

Beautiful Home of Mrs. Lyman L. Pratt At Eagle Rock Is Scene

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Lyman L. Pratt and her daughter, Miss Helen S. Pratt, were hostesses for an idyllic wedding which took place in the spacious garden of their home, 245 West Ridgeway avenue. Miss Pratt, a trained naturalist, has gathered there many beautiful and rare plants, shrubs and trees, and it has an individuality that is admired by all who see it.

The contracting parties of the happy affair were Miss Bernice L. Eastman, daughter of Mrs. Josephine B. Eastman of Huntington Park, and Philip Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnston, who were engaged for years in mission work among the Indians in Arizona, but are now residing in their new and unique adobe house on South Ellis avenue, Eagle Rock. Miss Eastman has been the supervisor of music in the public schools of Huntington Park for several years past, and is an intimate friend of Miss Pratt. Their acquaintance began back in Oberlin, Ohio, where they attended school together, Miss Eastman afterward graduating from Crane Musical Institute, in. Potsdam, N. Y.

A long, wide pergola extending from the back exit of the house into the garden and covered with Lady Banksia roses, pink wistaria, and maidenhair vine, formed an ideal approach to the improvised altar. Surrounded by blooming iris, stocks, daffodils, bridal wreath and other flowers, the wedding party took their places, Mrs. Jack Coombs acting as bridesmaid and John Hogue as groomsman. Rev. Dr. Carl S. Patton, pastor of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles, who performed the ceremony, stood beside an artistic Japanese bird-bath which for this occasion was filled with sweet peas, to the astonishment and dismay of the orioles, mockers, and other birds who looked upon it as their private property.

The bride was gowned in white georgette with trimmings of crystal beads and carried a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair ferns. Her attendant wore pale orchid organdie, combined with white. About fifty guests were present. After the ceremony refreshments of fruit and bride cake, dainty sandwiches, and candies in orchid crepe paper baskets were served in the house, which was beautifully decorated with live oak and plum blossoms, iris, sweet peas and Cherokee roses.

A pleasing feature of the merry gathering was the camaraderie felt by a number of the participants throught their memories of Oberlin. Besides those previously mentioned, Mrs. Pratt, Dr. Patton, and several others were graduated from that celebrated college. The bride and groom will live for the present in Huntington Park.

JUMBO TAKES HIS SATURDAY BATH!

LIGHT METER TAX TO RAISE REVENUE

"This showing makes us feel a whole lot better," said Councilman Stevenson. "It looks as though we are on the right track this time."

While this discussion was under way Mr. McKee of the McKee Dry Goods store, stated that the East Glendale Advancement association, which held a meeting yesterday noon, at which the matter of raising this money was one of the principal subjects of discussion, had already endorsed this 25-cent meter tax, and that organization would stand solidly behind the council in putting over this tax.

When seen this morning C. E. Neale of the Neale & Gregg Hardware company, stated that the result of last night's meeting suits him to a "T," and also said that it is his belief that it will prove acceptible to all of the business men of Glendale. All the business men are after, he said, is to have this tax or assessment spread over the entire city, rather than put on the shoulders of the already overburdened business men.

The statement of the expenditure of the city, which was asked for by the Credit Men's Association was rendered to the council by City Comptroller Harrison last night. This is as follows:

Hon. Mayor, City of Glendale,

Dear Sir: Relative to the question under discussion at the present time, as to financing the general budget fund, the following data is presented in explanation of the necessity for providing additional finances.

Due to the growth of the city it has been necessary to provide additional facilities and street improvements which were not contemplated at the beginning of the fiscal year. It has therefore been necessary to expand the engineering, street and other departmental forces since July 1, 1921, as follows:

1921	Gen.	Police	Fire	Eng.	St.
July 1	28	14	9	7	23
Feb. 28	30	19	12	24	29
Increase	2	5	3	17	6

Owing to the failure of bond issues to cover purchase of warehouse site and buildings, it became imperative that some place be provided where personal property and store material would be under cover and protected, causing an additional outlay.

This land was purchased at a price of $1750 for each 50-foot lot and has an actual market value of $3000 each.

The department of public welfare as at February 28 shows a proportionate over expenditure of $5397.23, being mainly due to the garbage situation which in serving the additional buildings and streets, caused an expense not estimated in the budget allowance for such work. This expense has been reduced about $500 a month under the present contract for such service.

The department of public safety shows a proportionate over expenditure of $2365.83 as at this date, resulting from the additional men required to provide better protection in both fire and police departments.

The department of public works shows an over expenditure as at February 28 of $4348.85, which is caused by the increase in working forces necessitated by the large number of public improvements under way at the present time.

In viewing the facts presented above, due consideration must be given to the growth of the city, which has been growing at the rate of approximately 450 people per month, or 4500 in all, since the beginning of the fiscal year and an increase of approximately 12,000 since January 1, 1920, or a growth of 100 per cent in two years.

In closing the general budget expenditure ledger on June 30, 1921, there resulted a net over expenditure of $9823.47, as at February 28, 1922, the accounts shows an over-expenditure of $12,669.40 and an excess miscellaneous income over the budget estimate of $6632.31, as at this date, or a net over expenditure as at February 28 of $6037.09.

On this basis by June 30 we will face an over expenditure totaling $20,000, and as the general reserve fund, being inadequate to loan sufficient funds, we will be dependent on current miscellaneous revenues to carry the accounts on a cash basis, until November tax money is received. Under present conditions this income averages $6000 a month, while the expenditures average $16,500.

Therefore, the general city fund will be unable to pay their current payrolls and invoices for four months to the extent of $45,000.

Respectfully,
H. A. HARRISON,
Controller.

Mail Want Ad

Write your advertisement in the blank spaces below, just as you want it to appear in the Want Ad columns. Tell your story completely and convincingly if you want to accomplish quick results. Three days' insertion produces more replies than one; a week's insertion is best of all.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES
First Insertion—Minimum charge 30 cents, including four lines, counting five words to the line. Additional lines 5 cents per line.
Subsequent Consecutive Insertions—5 cents per line.
Minimum charge for each subsequent insertion, 15 cents.

When do you want your advertisement published? .....
Do you want a "blind" or keyed address used? Amount enclosed .....

Glendale Daily Press Want Ads are accepted by telephone or may be brought to our office. This blank is for the benefit of the person who finds it more convenient to fill his "Want" by mail.

How to Figure Your Want Ad

Count five average words to each line. The address at the foot of your Want Ad is counted also. Each number, initial, etc., counts as one word. For example, the name, "John C. Smith," is three words; "212 W. Main Street" is four words; "160 acres, 3 miles from railroad, $300 per acre," is nine words, etc. In case you want a keyed or "blind" address used instead, indicate so above. The "blind" address comprises five words and will be counted as part of your advertisement.

AMERICANS IN ARMENIA
The American library here has just celebrated the installation of its 20,000th book. It is now the largest in Soviet Armenia. Founded a year ago by the Near East Relief as a part of the system of schools in the Erivan district, the library hopes to be the means of preserving thousands of old manuscripts and volumes of ancient lore, representing the results of hundreds of years of Armenian culture and study, which otherwise would have been lost in the political disorganization of the present time. The Americans at the ceremonies included: Milton Brown, Chicago; Dudley P. Lewis, Springfield, Mass.; W. N. Kellar, Linden Hall, Pa.; C. F. Rowland, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. M. E. Elliott, Lake Worth, Fla.; Mary Gerald, Little Falls, N. J.; Mrs. M. H. Power, Detroit; L. F. Priest, Detroit; Clark D. Martin, Philadelphia; Blanche Scribner, Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. Dorothy Sutton, Washington, D. C.

LEGACY OF $16,000 WILL KEEP WOLF FROM DOOR FOR THESE LUCKY DOGS

When Mrs. Sadie A. Howard of Chicago died she bequeathed a flat building worth $16,000 to her pet dog, Beauty, and her puppies. To her sister, Mrs. I. Leighton, she left only $500. Mrs. Leighton is trying to break the will. At the dogs' death, which are not thoroughbreds, the estate will revert to an orphans' home at Stutgaart, Ark. The dogs at present are being cared for by Dorothy Bashau, 10 years old, under the supervision of an attorney. Dorothy is shown here holding Beauty and her puppies.

BURBANK NEWS

BEAUTIFUL HOME PLANNED BY J. C. CRAWFORD

Experimenter of Agriculture Department to Build at Burbank

James C. Crawford is building a very fine house on his property at Pioneer and Magnolia avenues. It will be veneered with rug brick, a patented process of brick which gives a beautiful appearance and it will have a red Spanish tile roof. It will be of the bungalow type, with six rooms. The building will stand on a tract of two and one-half acres, part of which will be landscaped and the remainder set in a large variety of fruits. Mr. Crawford now has forty-two varieties of grapes on this plot. He is a recognized experimentor of the bureau of plant importation of the Department of Agriculture and receives many rare specimens of fruits.

Helen Mar Carpenter is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. A. C. Fillbach, while she is recuperating from an operation for the removal of adenoids.

Mrs. F. C. Silver and her two daughters of Santa Ana have been the guests of Mrs. J. H. Barnum of Cypress avenue.

Mrs. Anson J. Erb of Manistee, Mich., is in the city to be with her cousin, Mrs. C. F. Greenman. She will remain here indefinitely.

Mrs. Iches and daughter, Miss Georgia, who have been living at 731 Verduga avenue, have moved to the Nelson block. Miss Iches has accepted a position in the office of the Illinois Cleaners and Dyers, who have opened a place in the remodeled Burbank block.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton of Elsinore, spent the week end with Mrs. Newton's mother, Mrs. Robbins of Olive avenue.

On April 17, the members of the Woman's Club will give a banquet in honor of their husbands, but the place has not been decided upon. A fine program has been planned which will include Arthur Katchel, the famous impersonator, who will give "The Music Master." Reservations should be made with Mesdames Barnum, Griswold and Kahl.

The out of town guests at the reception which Mrs. A. W. Reese, Worthy Matron of the Eastern Star held for members of the chapter, were: Mrs. E. L. Parke, Worthy Matron, and Mrs. J. E. Phillips, conductress of Glen Eyrie chapter, Glendale.

Mrs. F. A. Hemry of Palm avenue, was the honored guest at the home of her son, C. L. Hemry in Los Angeles, at a celebration of her birthday anniversary.

Miss Hazel Dellenbaugh, who has been spending the winter in Los Angeles, but who resides in Champaign, Ill., made a short visit with Mrs. Bert Cross of 210 East Seventh street.

To celebrate the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Lesta, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Davidson gave a theatre party Saturday night, going to the Mason in Los Angeles. The party was composed of Miss Louise Gordray, Howard and Lee Buffington and Robert Comeron, besides the host and hostess and the guest of honor. An after theatre dinner was enjoyed.

EASTERN STAR RECEPTION

BURBANK, April 12.—The official visit of the district deputy, Eastern Star, Mrs. Jessie Wood Page, will be celebrated Friday night with an elaborate dinner at 7 o'clock at the Elizabeth Hotel. Following the banquet, the regular meeting will be held.

WHITE LIES AS PEACE POULTICES

BERKELEY, Calif., April 14.—"To lie a little is better than to be unhappy," declared Professor J. V. Breitweiser, of the education department of the University, in a lecture to his students.

Prof. Breitweiser, however, warned against following too closely in the steps of Ananias.

"White lies often do more good and save more pain than the blunt truth," he declared. "Black lies are always to be avoided. The White lie is without malice and not for self-aggrandizement. If you tell black lies often enough, you will soon be believing them yourself."

YESTERDAY

TODAY

OH! MY DEAR, be compassionate and pitiful—for 'twas at STOP AND SHOP, 223 North Brand boulevard that Martha lost her heart! And, indeed, you'll be delighted, too, when you've seen the fetching frocks for Easter that they're showing this week! If you're still in doubt as to the gown you'll want for Sunday, just drop in at STOP AND SHOP, and I'll guarantee that all your worries will cease! Seldom does one find so complete a stock of charming gowns at prices so reasonable! There are lovely new dresses in crepe de chine and taffeta, as well as good-looking sport skirts and top coats! Oh, yes, and don't forget the stunning hats that have made the millinery department at Stop and Shop a phenomenal success—for theirs are chapeux of which distinctiveness and individuality are characteristic! Don't forget to Stop and Shop at 223 N. Brand boulevard!

A smart result in sports effect for suits is achieved in a suit of old blue ratine with darker blue worsted and revers, and vest of gray worsted. Worsted fringe is used on the ends of revers and skirt bands.

"THOUGH MEN BUILD HOUSES—it is women who make homes!" So has said one of our much-beloved authors! And how true — for many are the men who can artistically design and build, yes, even furnish a dwelling —but until a feminine hand has added this or that — just a little touch of grace and harmony here and there—'tis never a "home," but remains alway a very beautiful "house!" For, after all, "home-keeping hearts are happiest" and happy the woman, who, throughout the day is ever planning and looking forward to that home-coming at night, to the time when "he" shall come to "her"—come home once more to forget his worries and lose himself in the happy atmosphere of comfort and harmony which she has created—and which, however humble or beautiful, constitutes their "home!" Then, and then only, can —"the cares that infest the day, Fold their tents like the Arabs And as silently steal away!"

Martha Alicia

THERE'S A CERTAIN HOSPITALITY in the very atmosphere of YE OLDE OAK TREE INN on North Verdugo road—about one mile south of Montrose! It's not alone in the charming setting—the beautiful hills covered with spreading oak trees, and a wonderful quiet o'er all—nor in the tasty, home-cooked chicken dinner which they serve! In fact, it's a charm that is entirely distinctive, although utterly elusive and indefinable! When you've been driving, Ye Olde Oak Tree Inn, is an ideally situated place to stop for dinner—for truly the food is excellent—and really exceptionally reasonable! You'll be so comfortable, resting in a big easy chair before the crackling log fire in an inviting living room, while out in the kitchen, the chicken roasts to a golden brown—and oh! such dainties are being prepared! Just phone Glendale 2243-J-1—and dinner will be ready to serve when you arrive!

Especial appeal does an afternoon dress of originality have, by introducing a simple open-work silk braid to outline neck and armholes and to form diamond motifs. Then sleeves serve their timely purpose of adding style as well, and there is a braided girdle of self cordings. The material is old-blue faille with underlay of rose crepe.

IT IS ALWAYS WITH A FEELING of expectation that I turn my steps towards the JAPAN ART AND TEA CO., 135 S. Brand boulevard—for, do you know, there, I'm sure to be surprised with a delightful bit of the Orient! And, today it was my pleasure to taste some crystalized ginger! Yum—it was good—but no less delightful was I by the winsome little jars in which it is packed! Of course if you wish you may buy the crystalized ginger in smaller cans, too! They have also received a shipment, from Japan of imported crab meat —canned crab that excels any I've ever tasted in flavor! Why, there's really nothing one can't find at the Japan Art and Tea Co.—even to the famous Brown's Rag-time Chocolates! But drop in and see for yourself!

Owing its novelty in a large part to the beauty of the printed radium material of which it is made, is an attractive afternoon dress, with soft pink coral ground matched by vestee, looped skirt panels and sleeve trimming of crepe de chine, while narrow French blue and rose satin ribbons accent the hip line and encircle the arms.

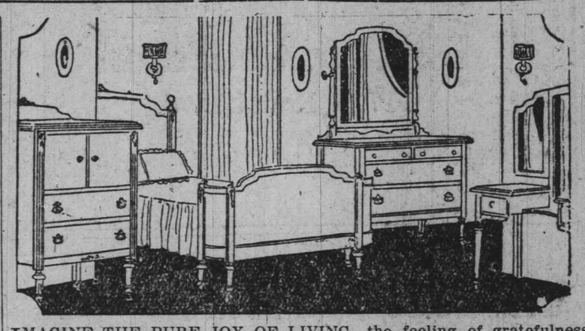
IT'S ALWAYS A JOY to buy goodies at the ROLLIN' PIN BAKE SHOP, 218 E. Broadway—for they're truly "home-baked"—and perfectly delicious! And do you know, I'e discovered that it's the Rollin' Pin Bake Shop, where those wonderful Danish Pastries are made and that the secret of their deliciousness lies in the mixture —for butter and flour are used in equal parts! When you're entertaining, make it a point the Rollin' Pin Bake Shop make your cakes and pies!



IMAGINE THE PURE JOY OF LIVING—the feeling of gratefulness just to be alive, with which you'd awaken in a beautiful bedroom such as this. And, it may all be had, so easily, too!—Just drop in at the ENTERPRISE STORE, 216 E. Broadway, and ask to see the charming bedroom suites pictured here. I know you'll want it!

NOWHERE IS THAT DEGREE of refinement and good-taste so noticeable as in one's selection of greeting cards—and particularly should great care be exercized in the choosing of Easter messages! But just come with me to the SHOP UNIQUE, 125 W. Broadway —for there, I'm sure you'll find just what you wish! Mr. Tolman is offering a wonderful line of beautiful cards, daintily hand-decorated and bearing verses of rare beauty and appropriateness for 25c each! Of these, some are typical of our glorious California, seeming to breathe a bit of the very sunshine and flowers—while others convey in true convention the genuine Easter spirit—but all are exquisite examples of a masters art! And, could there be a more delightful message to the folks back east, than a few of lovely life-like California Poppies which are being sold at Shop Unique specially at 10c each, 2 for 25c, or 85c the dozen! Do drop in and look over Mr. Tolman's interesting stock—I can promise you a delightful half-hour!

ONE MUST NOT NECESSARily be expensively gowned in order to be well dressed, but there is a certain "distinctiveness" about a dress, however simple, that at once characterizes its wearer as up-to-the-minute and smartly groomed! It is this happy faculty of expressing individuality and personality combined with exceptional good-taste that has made Madame Geraldine at the FASHION SHOPPE, 406 S. Brand boulevard, so much sought-after by women who know! Madame Geraldine will design and make for a gown, along the simplest lines, that when finished will be a veritable creation of originalty and loveliness! But, despite the excellency of her art, and the beauty of her work, Madmaes Geraldine's prices are exceptionally reasonable — well within reach of all. Stop in and see her about your summer wardrobe!—she'll be able to offer many interesting suggestions, I know!

'TWILL BE A GLORIOUS EASTER SUNDAY for the kiddies, if the wise old bunny drops in at FISCHER'S VARIETY STORE, 212 East Broadway, for the baskets and candies! Yes, and he'll be able to select the dearest little baby chicks and cute, fuzzy bunnies—some even filled with candy—to delight the little tots! At Fischer's you'll see baskets and nests as well as beautiful and gainly colored Easter eggs—in fact all sorts and kinds of novelties to please young and old alike! Do take the children down to Fischer's to enjoy this beautiful display!

HAPPY MOMENTS are those spent at the ART NEEDLE SHOP, 209 East Broadway, in learning to make such fascinatingly lovely things, such as knitted or crocheted sweaters and caps, and beautiful embroidery! There are classes every Tuesday and Friday from 10 till 12, and 2 till 4. Drop in, next time you're down that way, won't you?

NO, MY DEAR, YOU'LL NO longer need to worry when friends drop in unexpectedly for a week-end visit—at least not as soon as you've bought one of those dandy new duo-fold davenports! Haven't you seen them? Well, come right now to GLENN B. PORTER'S FURNITURE CO., at 124 West Broadway, and you will see the wonderful new davenport bed, with convenient drop arms! You know, during the day it's so handy to just let the arms down, get a soft pillow, and you'll have plenty of room to curl up and take 40 winks! Yes, and what's more, when you wish to use the new duo-fold as a bed, at night, it is large enough to admit a full-sized 35-pound mattress! And do you ask to see the wonderful combination library and dining table, for small bungalows and apartments, which Mr. Porter is showing this week. It eliminates all risk of tipping, for the legs are perfectly stable!

I'VE SUCH GLAD TIDINGS FOR YOU! ARTHUR H. DIBBERN of 121 North Brand boulevard showed me the most adorable new wrist watch I've seen in ages! In fact, it's the only one of its kind to be shown in Southern California —a beautiful white-gold Elgin—in a daintily embossed Octagon case! Why, my dear, you'd never for a moment doubt but that this charming bit of jewelry was genuine platinum—although the price is amazingly low for white-gold —only $40! You'll simply love the daintiness of this winsome little Elgin—so I'd advise you to be first at Dibbern's—and have it to complete your Easter costume on Sunday morn! Due to the fact that Mr. Dibbern placed his order early —there'll soon be another shipment of these adorable white-gold watches in the popular Octagon, cushion and tonneau shapes. Better drop in and place an order!

WHO COULD RESIST THE call of the garden—the desire to watch things grow—after having browsed around 'mongst the garden things at the ELLIOTT HARDWARE STORE, 205 West Broadway? Their prices on hose, lawn mowers, and, in fact, all garden tools, are, I believe, the lowest in town! And, too, they've a full line of seeds for your selection. Drop in at Elliott's any way, and look over their stock!

AN EASTER SUNDAY SPECial at PUSS 'N BOOTS, 211½ South Brand Blvd., is the delicious chicken or turkey dinner which they will serve at $1.00 the plate! I know you'll enjoy the palatial food at Puss 'n Boots, as well as the excellent service. But don't take my word for it—drop in and see for yourself!

YOU WILL THOROUGHLY ENJOY the chicken dinner served at PUSS'N BOOTS, 211½ South Brand boulevard on Sundays for $1 the plate. The food is delicious, home cooked—and the service is excellent! But don't take my word for it—drop in and see for yourself!

THERE IS AN INDEFINABLE CHARM in the very softness of a smart choker fur, that tends to enhance Milady's antural beauty and grace! Wise is the woman who recognizes this power—and uses it! Miss Bedell of the BEDELL FUR SHOP, 4125 North Louise street, is a designer and maker of beautiful fur pieces—furs that express their wearer's very personality, for are they not made to portray that certain individuality which we all seek? If you've an old fur coat, or mayhap an old muff, just take it to Miss Bedell, and I'll warrant that when she's finished you'll be wearing the season's latest delight—made from your discarded fur! Or, of course, she's always an excellent line of new furs and skins—ready to be fashioned into charming pieces to suit Milady's own peculiar style and charm. Call Glen. 429-J for prices.

LET THERE BE LAMPLIGHT—said someone, so I dropped in at GLENDALE ELECTRIC CO., of 132 North Brand boulevard, where, methinks, there is the most delightful display of lamps and lighting fixtures! And, to be sure, I soon found an array of beautiful library table lamps—in the very newest designs! The bases were gracefully shaped of metal, most attractively finished in the lighter and darker tones, to set off the design, while the shades—burst upon one in a vision of loveliness! The art glass used is tastefully colored in a manner that changes the tone when lighted—and the designs are indeed charming! Do stop in next time you're near the Glendale Electric Co. and look over this newly received shipment of pretty library table lamps!

Light grey keepe-knit (ratine) is combined with a skirt and sleeves of henna Canton crepe in a chic sports dress. The model has a square neck and side opening with loops and buttons to fasten and a narrow belt with silver buckles.

THERE'LL NEVER BE ANOTHER Easter Sunday quite like this—remember, for next year, the children will be a wee bit older, and they'll have dropped many of their cute little ways and manners that are so charming now! That's why you should, by all means, take them to GLENN R. DOLBERG'S STUDIO, 206½ West Broadway, for Mr. Dolberg expresses in his photographs the very characteristics and personality of the sitter! He'll make the most delightful pictures of the kiddies—pictures that will be a joy to you forever, for they'll record for always a record of that glorious Easter Sunday in childhood!

--*

The graceful beauty of crepe Romaine, just a bit heavier than georgette, is enhanced in an afternoon model for bridge, luncheon or tea occasions, by being in the highly favored shade known as hyacinth or periwinkle blue. The sash drapes the hips with a rosette and jabot, and the lower sleeves are of silver grey chiffon.

--*

IT IS A VERITABLE ART to expertly re-sole old shoes! And you'll find that it pays in more ways than one to trade at 312 E. Broadway—BAINE'S SHOE REPAIR SHOP—for Mr. Baines, does really know his business! And, my dear, his prices are exceptionally low, too—in fact the cheapest in town, for where, pray tell me, can you have ladies' shoes re-soled and rubber heeled for $1.50. Men's shoes are $1.90, and as for the kiddies—well, when their shoes rip, just send them down to Baines' Shoe Repair Shop, and Mr. Baines will mend them absolutely free of charge!

--*

Taffeta is smartly used in a fascinating frock of dark blue chiffon taffeta with sleeve linings and tunic facings of sulphur yellow crepe Romaine and Venetian lace collar and trimmings on sleeves. The waist has side tunics gathered at the hips with jet trimming and neck fastening.

CAN YOU ALWAYS BELIEVE YOUR EYES?

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

When Louie Thompson and Tommy Peele began to scatter these golden grains of corn beside Dr. Muskrat's flat stone the Grey Ganders couldn't believe their eyes. Would a man give a wild goose anything but a shot from a gun? Then why was Dr. Ticklefeather gabbling away at Louie as if he'd been hatched in a barnyard? Or Hot-Spur, their favorite leader, bowing his tall head over Tommy's hand? The others came a-flapping.

The little boys' own eyes seemed playing tricks on them. The birds which looked so scary and wild and fierce were friendly and tame. "Aren't they beauties!" Tommy exclaimed. "My but they're big! Big as—as ostriches, I guess, if their wings were long."

"Ostriches, eh?" Louie's red dog, Pal, pricked up his ears. "Not quite. I know about ostriches, 'cause I've seen one. Yes, and Chips Beaver wouldn't believe me when I told about it. Let's just see what Chips will believe." Off he went, chuckling, to find the Flock Guard who had first made friends with him.

The young goose listened; then he began to cackle so loud his friends wanted to know: "What's the joke? Tell us, too." And when they heard it they squawked: "Us, too, us, too! We want to be ostriches!" So just before sundown Pal led the way to Chips' own Pond! He waited for them to settle down and then he called: "Chips, oh, Chips! There's a party over at Dr. Muskrat's. Come along."

Chips started gaily out of his underwater door with his eye out for the mink. What was that he saw? No, what were those? For the whole shore was dotted with strange forms craning their long necks toward him. He almost turned back without poking his head out, but not quite; he was too curious. One breath of air, one glance, and he was gone. Great gray ghosts of birds, birds such as he had never seen, had silently gaped their wicked beaks at him. Ow-w-w! He dove in such a hurry

For the Whole Shore Was Dotted With Strange Forms Craning Their Long Necks Toward Him

he didn't hear those rascally young geese fly away.

"Chips, oh, Chips!" Pal kept calling.

"Yes, Pal," came a bubbly voice. "Are they still there? Those terrible birds, I mean."

"Birds? Birds? Are you sure you didn't imagine them?"

Chips peeked again. And there weren't any birds. "Pal" he sighed impressively, "maybe I did imagine them. But if those—those—"

"Ostriches," prompted the dog.

"If those orstriches you imagined were as real as that I'm perfectly willing to believe in them."

One of the most inconsistent things in the world is a keep-off-the-grass sign in the middle of a snowdrift.

'Ethel," asked the teacher in ancient history class, "whom do the ancients say supported the world on his shoulders?"

"Atlas."

"Yes, quite right. Now, if Atlas supported the world, who supported Atlas?"

"I suppose he married a rich wife," replied Ethel.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

GIRL WIFE QUITS AGED MILLIONAIRE HUSBAND "FOR GOOD," SHE SAYS

MRS JONATHAN GODFREY nee ESTELLE MUDGE. JONATHAN GODFREY.

After three years of apparent happiness as the girl wife of Jonathan Godfrey, 76-year-old millionaire of Bridgeport, Conn., Mrs. Estelle Mudge Godfrey, 21, is planning legal action for separation. "I have left Mr. Godfrey for good," she declares. "It is a case of incompatibility. I do not intend to return to Bridgeport at any time." The aged millionaire does not know why his wife left him, he asserts. He has dispelled the "other man" theory and declares that he still loves her.

ROUND UP RELICS OF '49 STARTS FOR MUSEUM

Relics and Properties Committee Begins Gathering Exhibits

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—Officials of the "Days of '49" celebration in Sacramento started this week, a big roundup of relics and material for the Days of Gold Museum which is to be one of the features of the '49 Mining Town during the celebration, May 23-28.

General Chairman H. E. Dingles, General Manager A. S. Didley and Chairman J. L. Tucker of the relics and properties committee, will tour the entire Mother Lode section and famous old "gold diggin's" districts with the view of securing the most unusual collection of relics ever assembled.

Their trip will take them to Carson City, where C. A. Ambrose, pioneer, has a collection of relics and old-time equipment that is said to be unequaled. It includes a prairie schooner, with wooden axles, lynchpins, etc., that came across the plains during the gold rush. Ambrose has even broken a yoke of oxen to pull it.

Tucker has issued a call to all pioneer families in the old gold section to get in touch with him if they have relics to put on display.

LATEST PAPER CARPETS

LONDON, April 14. — British traders fear paper carpets. The Germans are making paper carpets to sell at $1.50, as against the British carpet, which sells for $3 per yard. "Don't buy German imitations," is the slogan of John Bull carpetmakers. "Ours cost more, but they wear better."

MISSING LINK IS SOUGHT IN THE WILDERNESS

Patagonia Forests to Be Ransacked for Bones of Prehistoric Man

CHICAGO, April 14.—Definite proof of the Darwinian theory of evolution—that man evolved from lower animals—lies hidden in the fastness of the Patagonian bone caves, according to Elmer S. Riggs, curator of paleontology of the Field Museum of Natural History.

Riggs today proposed an expedition to take the trail of prehistoric fossils in South America.

That missing links in the long line of descent from the small single-celled amoeba to the twentieth century "superman" are to be found in the ages-old Masupial remains, is the belief of Riggs and his scientific associates.

The expedition, one of five being sent to remote places of the earth by the museum, will seek to establish the relation between ancient animal life in South America and present life in the United States.

"The one confusing thing about the evolutionary theory," Riggs said, "is that there was an interchange of South American and European and North American animal life which almost restroyed possibility of connecting all the links in the evolutionary chain."

Original animal life in South America was quite distinct from life on any other continent," Riggs said.

"It is an estabilshed fact," he said, "that the continents of North and South America were once separated, where we now have the Isthmus os Panama. But during that separation animals crossed plains (now the Atlantic Oceon) from the Eastern hemisphere and an interchange of animal life between the continents of the Western hemisphere followed."

The horse and the sabre toothed tiger in this country, according to Riggs, are results of this interchange of life.

"I have received fossils of the giant sloth, a native of South America, from as far north as Minneapolis," he stated.

"William Jennings Bryan to the contrary," the scientist smiled, "we believe the missing links exist and that we can find them."

Riggs said he expected to spend four years working along the Patagonian coast. As much of the expedition as possible will be made in motor cars shipped from the United States, while the more difficult trails will be followed with horses and mules.

The Field curator is a widely-traveled scientist. His work began for the University of Kansas in 1894. Later he made expeditions for the American Museum of New York.

All fossils picked up on the trip will be brought to the Field Museum here.

LONDONDERRY JAGGED

-A municipal jag here has resulted in two deaths, many illnesses and much sympathy for people in the United States. Thieves removed casks of whiskey from a local distillery and opened them in the street. Soon crowds of men, women and children with glasses and buckets were at the scene. Many became intoxicated. One man collapsed and died in the street. Another died later. Scores of people were ill. It was found that the whiskey was immature.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Adv.

Telephone Traffic

The signals of the traffic officer are obeyed instantly by the intelligent citizen, as he realizes that indifference means confusion and congestion.

Over the wires and through the switchboards of the telephone company there is a constant volume of traffic. Here there is also a signal—the ringing of the telephone bell. A great obstacle in the flow of this traffic is delay in answering the telephone bell.

Answer your telephone bell promptly. You will accommodate the party calling. Your own line will be more quickly cleared for other business.

Truths in Epigram

A man is very apt to complain of the ingratitude of those who have risen far above him. — Johnson (1709-1784).

In the heights it is warmer than people in the valleys suppose, especially in winter. The thinker recognizes the full import of this simile.—Nietzsche (1844-1900).

Chiefly the mould of a man's fortune is in his own hands.—Bacon (1561-1626).

PURSUING THE DOLLAR

Margot Asquith brought a bad temper and a habit of querulousness to this country. Now she has departed, taking both with her. Her visit was not the result of a special invitation. She was not warmly welcomed, nor did her going away cause pain, at least, not on this side. One of her averments as she went was that "the American, through his endless pursuit of the dollar, misses a great many things in life that he otherwise might acquire." Margot chooses to be severe.

While the visitor was here she admitted freely that she was in hope of receiving money. She accepted with apparent willingness the fees of such as were willing to listen to her wholly inconsequential talk for the purpose of seeing a woman, who, by the frank indecency of her writing, had achieved notoriety. Her accepted description as "the woman with a serpent's tongue" had constituted her an exhibit, inciting curiosity. However, all this may be passed over. The purpose here is to resent the assertion that the American is engaged in the pursuit of the dollar with a particle more of zest than marks the activities of other peoples engaged in a similar quest. Americans try to get money. So do Englishmen, French, Germans, Scandinavians; so does everybody. The ambition to get money is the incentive of all industrial effort, the basis of every commercial enterprise. An absence of the desire to have money would mean a dead world. But why charge Americans with possessing the desire, as though elsewhere it were unknown or deprecated?

Money means education, comfort, health. The love of money for itself alone is not widely prevalent. People strive for money for the things that may be accomplished by it. If they strive honestly, and the things they accomplish, tend to promote the general welfare, they are not properly subject to censure. If they are misers they cannot avoid the penalty of being despised.

Mrs. Asquith invades a friendly land for the sole and avowed purpose of getting dollars. She finds the dollars being chased by the American, and too few of them chased into the box office of her lecture bureau. But she received far more than she earned at that. For her to have sailed without a parting fling would have been a nice courtesy; but it would not have been like the least like the Margot.

THE GENOA CONFERENCE

To predict the immediate outcome and the ultimate effect of the Genoa conference, would be rash and foolish. The general belief is that it tends to peace in Europe, but even this is modified by doubts. There are certain elements there still moved by the spirit of unrest, or brooded over by the fear of calamity. To restore confidence and to rebuild human faith is the great task faced at Genoa.

Lloyd George declared in the beginning that powers unwilling to be guided by the rules of civilization could not be permitted to participate. This was a direct thrust at Russia. The soviet government had been guilty of precisely the acts that George said, could not be tolerated. It had repudiated debts, broken its solemn word, and maintained propaganda against the well-being of its neighbors. But the Russians, agreeing to recant and to behave in a seemly fashion, brought up the subject of disarmament. No subject could have been less welcome or more delicate.

France is afraid to disarm in any part, for never has it accepted the apparent German status as genuine. The French think that the German failure to try to make reparation, and the refusal to levy taxes to meet the financial demand of the allies, argues a concealed yet active hostility. Only the other day French troops were blown up on German soil as they sought for hidden munitions. This tragedy was poor preliminary to friendly discussion.

After all, Russia is the great problem. Had it been conducted along the lines of legally constituted government, devoted itself to promoting its own interests, rather than to undermining the interests of its neighbors, there is no reason to assume that it would not have been aided by friendly powers, and that these would have included the United States as well as Europe. It chose to be the enemy of all peoples, to make war on all civilization, even to threatening it with ultimate destruction.

It is difficult to see how such a Russia as this, its character bedraggled, its credit dead, its money useless, and its sole strength concentrated in its army, could at once be taken into the family of nations. That if it could induce Europe to lay down arms, Russia would then discard its own arms, is not to be believed. Such a course would not be in accord with the way soviet Russia ever yet has kept its word or guarded its honor.

Nevertheless, war continues to be unthinkable. Surely the collective statesmanship of a continent will be able to point the way to adjustment, to discern the path that each nation ought to follow, and urge each on its way towards permanent peace.

MRS. PAT GIVES FRIENDS AWAY

Mrs. Pat Campbell, formerly an actress of beauty and distinction, it seems has written an autobiography. There really was no call for this. The world saw and admired her on the stage years ago, and would be quite content to remember her comeliness and the grace of her art. As to her personal affairs it has no interest, save as the recital will drag into uncomfortable prominence, certain men already prominent in other ways.

It is said that she will portray in her personal narrative her relations with such individuals as Sir James Barrie and Bernard Shaw. There is no intimation that they will be shown in a favorable light. As for Shaw, at least, there will be scant sympathy. Even the spectacle of him as he squirmed in humiliation would be regarded as proof that he was having a proper and deserved experience. His task has been to make others squirm.

The only excuse possible for autobiography is a life of achievement, by one really great. It is comparatively seldom that such an individual has time to set down the record of life's activities. Even if he undertakes the task, he is likely to make a mistake, and with his pen prick the bubble of his own importance. Rousseau's Confessions, admittedly a fine example of autobiography, if faithfulness to detail is considered, portrayed a weak and contemptible side that the world profited nothing by learning about.

When a woman of no literary standing writes an autobiography, which really is a volume betraying the confidence of those who have admired and trusted her, her reason must be that she "needs the money." This may be a poor reason, but she has no other save sheer meanness, a quality one hesitates to ascribe to a member of the favored sex.

END OF A GOOD TIME

Recently a party of four, men and women, went to Tia Juana. They were in quest of "a good time." At this writing one of the women is dead. The other woman and the two men are in jail while an effort is being made to throw a little more light on the tragedy.

It appears that the members of the party conceived that having a good time meant indulgence in the sort of liquor that circulates at the border. To accentuate the delights of the occasion they also used drugs. The drugs killed one of the party, she not having been an addict. With her death, and the taking over of the survivors by police, the party broke up.

Various estimates are made as to what experiences constitute "a good time." Some people, perhaps somewhat prosaic by nature, fail to see the charm of inebriation induced by risking life. To partake of the fiery stuff that passes as whisky in any region where bootlegging is a chief industry, is to risk life. The purveyor is ready to furnish forth poison, and whether or not it kills the patrons, he deems no affair of his.

To believe that resort to drugs is any part of a good time requires the perverted instincts of the addict. When such addict takes an overdose, the loss is negligible. It is pitiful, however, to know that one who never before had indulged may get into bad company and be killed by the first contact with the deadly stuff.

RASUM'S UNIVERSAL RABOTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There has recently appeared in Prague an interesting play under the title "R. U. R."

The following is a summary of the piece:

DR. FRANK CRANE

A doctor named Rasum succeeded in inventing a human automaton, a human being except for the fact that it had no soul and no power of reproducing itself.

These machines were turned out in large quantities and were excellent for use in factories and in armies. The firm of Rasum, Ltd., supplied them in hundreds to factories, street car companies, and mines for work which human beings do not like to do, and in quantities of thousands to states for use in armies as cannon fodder.

The imagination can easily grasp the possibilities of this invention.

According to the playwright, however, the Rabots, as they are called, combine and make war against the real people with the souls and they destroy Dr. Rasum, and his factory and even the plan and the secret whereby the Rabots are made.

They also destroy the real people, all but one, and a great sadness comes upon the world as it is realized that man must die out.

At the end of the play, however, a soul is born in one of the Rabots and he is touched to love and so obtains the power to reproduce the species, and the human story recommences.

This resume of the play is quoted from Stephen Graham's account.

Just what sort of excitement and comment the idea will arouse in laborers' literary circles it would be curious to see.

At all events, it is an original and striking idea, and it is to be noted that some of the most novel conceptions in drama, in music, and in art have come from the Slavs.

In several respects the new country of Czecho-Slovakia, in the opinion of many, is the most hopeful state in Europe.

It is developing a racial self-confidence illustrated by the motto "Narod Sobe," which means the People for Itself which is inscribed over the proscenium in the Czech theater at Prague.

By common consent the Czech people are abandoning the use of the German language, and there is remarkable passion throughout the country for learning English.

A large portion of the Roman Catholic clergy have split from Rome and founded a Czech national church. The Pope has excommunicated them, but they do not seem to mind that much. A national Catholicism without an infallible Pope reminds one of the English State Church and of the Greek Church.

The Slavs are great believers in unity. They have invented the word "Pan-humanity."

Czecho-Slovakia probably has a warmer feeling toward the United States than any other European nation. It owes much to the American millionaire, Charles Crane, and Prague is the one capital of the world where Wilson's name and fame is still bright.

Crane's son is minister for the United States, and Crane's daughter-in-law, as painted by Mucha, is engraved on the new hundred crown note.

Masaryk, the president, owes much to the United States and is a warm admirer of this country. He has been elected by acclamation president for life, although after him the term of the president is to be limited to seven years and he may not serve two terms.

THE LISTENING POST

A man had a little horse.
That weighed only about eight or nine hundred pounds.
That would be large for a man.
But small for a horse.
For a big horse weighs almost a ton.

A ton of horse can do more work than eight or nine hundred pounds of horse.
He eats more, of course.
But he can pull a heavier load.
And from the standpoint of efficiency and usefulness there is more profit in a big horse than a little one.
If you are in the hauling business.

The man with the little horse had a cart.
A little cart.
And a harness to fit the little horse.
And with the little horse and the cart and the harness he drove about.
Doing odd jobs of hauling.

* * *

He could not do big jobs.
But there were plenty of little ones.
As there are always plenty of little jobs to do in the world.
Windows to wash and floors to scrub and axles to grease and trunks to haul.

* * *

And in the town where the little man lived with the little horse and the little cart and harness, you would see him always on the street.
Hauling something.
For hire.
And getting little sums of money.

* * *

He was seldom idle during working hours.
He found plenty to do.
People wanted little things carried back and forth.
And were willing to pay little sums.
And the little man with the little horse and cart earned a lot of little sums.
That in the aggregate counted up a tidy sum.

And there was in the same town another man.
With a lot of big horses.
That he kept out in a pasture sometimes.
And in a barn sometimes.
Eating their heads off.
For he was waiting for a big job that would earn him a fortune all at once.

* * *

And the big man kept waiting till he was in debt for feed.
And taxes and overhead charges.
Some of his horses died.
And eventually the big man with the lot of big horses went broke.
While the little man with the little horse kept on doing little jobs.
And getting money for them.

And one day the big man met the little man and said:
"It's funny. My big horses don't return me enough to keep me and here you are healthy and happy and prosperous with only one little horse. How do you do it?"

* * *

And the little man said:
"I know I have only one little horse. But I keep him busy."
And the moral is that you may have only a little talent. Or genius. Or capacity. Or ability.
But in the long run it will count a lot if you keep it busy.
Like the little horse and cart.

A Contemplation Upon Flowers—Henry King (1592-1669)

Brave flowers—that I could gallant it like you,
And be as little vain!
You come abroad, and make a harmless show,
And to your beds of earth again.
You are not proud; you know your birth:
For your embroidered garments are from earth.

You do obey your months and times, but I
Would have it ever Spring:
My fate would know no Winter, never die,
Nor think of such a thing.
O that I could my bed of earth but view
And smile, and look as cheerfully as you!

O teach me to see Death and not to fear,
But rather to take truce!
How often have I seen you at a bier,
And there look fresh and spruce!
You fragrant flowers! then teach me, that my breath
Like your may sweeten and perfume my death.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HOW CAN HE DO IT?

[Lawrence Telegram]

The common laborers in the steel mills of Pennsylvania and other adjacent states are now at work on a wage basis of from 23 to 25 cents an hour. Quite different from that of a few years ago.

Where the steel mills are running on three shifts of eight hours each the common laborer in one of those steel mills now receives about $1.90 to $2 per day.

How does he manage to live on such a wage during these days and bring up a family, something that most of the laborers in the steel plants of the country have.

It is real labor, too, that these men undergo, of the "sweat of your brow" kind.

But what can they get in the way of foodstuffs on their present pay after they have paid their rent or lodging bills, their clothes bill, shoe bills and other bills? Of course, they are not contracting any bills nowadays for high cost silk shirts or silk socks.

Look at it whichever way you like the problem of deflating wages in the steel or any other industry is a painful one for those at the bottom of the industrial pyramid.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

Sometimes, when the cares of life are overwhelming one, when friendship seems false, and the littleness of soul in some of those whom we would admire grates upon us, let's get out into the open. Away out into the country if we can—into the region of wide spaces, long vistas, high heavens. Out into the freshness of wind-blown fields, the majesty of towering mountains, the grace of slender bough tracery, the ruggedness of boulder and cliff.

Let's look about, drink in the beauty, the calm, the bigness and broadness of it all. Before we or our remote forefathers were, all this existed. The puny humans that have been kept alive through the gracious ministrations of the earth have come and gone over its surface—mere flashes of existence. The hills, the boulders, the fields—here yesterday, today, tomorrow. Succeeding seasons cast their variety and change about them—but always under the mere surface is their endurance, their stability and truth. When the earth, with its variations tires, why not look a little higher? The intense blue of the cloud-swept sky, the glowing tints of sunrise and sunset, the silver radiance of moon and stars, the dark dome of the evening heavens when clouds reign supreme—all have a tender charm, an enduring calm.

We limit our enjoyment. Indeed, do we confine it merely to bustling streets and their hurrying, pride-filled, self-intense life. The country, too, has its charms, its beauties, its satisfactions, and, greatest of boons in these care-filled days, its peaceful calm.

ADMIRAL SIMS PROTESTS

[Washington Star]

At a social function in Philadelphia, where speeches were in order, Admiral Sims was called upon, and responded. Naturally, he spoke of the navy, and naturally declared against the proposed slashing of supplies by congress for the support of that arm of the national defense.

The blunt old sailor confessed to "a lack of reputation for discretion" in his public addresses. But he does not lack for knowledge of the navy and its uses, or of what is necessary to keep the navy fit for the country's purposes.

But the men on Capitol Hill, considering those questions solely from the viewpoint of economy at a time of money pinch, disregard such advice, and reduce the supplies to a figure which causes surprise and protest in informed quarters.

Is this even economy? Does it pay to put either the navy or the army on short supplies? Does not our recent experience in war matters warn that it does not pay; that, indeed, it is the most expensive policy possible of adoption?

THE REAL AILMENT OF CONGRESS

[Detroit Free Press]

Former Senator Kenyon said nothing very new when he asserted that the trouble with congress is too much politics. He would have hit the truth more nearly if he had said "too much cheap politics."

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Criminologists in session at Chicago heard a speaker say this:

"The prevalence of an abnormal amount of crime in our large cities is the result of years of molly-coddling and sympathy by misinformed and ill-advised meddlers."

HENRY JAMES

If this is not the truth, it would be interesting to have some of the meddlers the speaker mentioned designate the point at which it errs.

It is with excceding regret that the necessity must be recognized of so often mentioning the subject of crime, but it could not be avoided save to the ignoring of much of the news. It is probable that the part of the public that has given the matter thought, will agree with the Chicago speaker. Yet he probably places upon meddlers a part of the responsibility that rests with the courts.

When a prisoner is arraigned all present, with the exception alone of the prosecuting attorney, seem to fear that he may be proved guilty, and possibly punished. The law is stretched for his protection. The rogue lawyer is permitted to cavil and quibble and confuse. The right of society to be safeguarded is lost to view.

Meanwhile the meddler, perhaps a philanthropist with whom pity is a passion, perhaps a sob sister of the press, or maybe a plain pervert, unite to make the prisoner's lot a happy one, and his couch a bed of roses. If the prisoner is a woman, her helplessness and beauty are harped upon. If the prisoner is a man his good quality may be that he regrets that his predicament is likely to cause his mother main. On that his followers hang a plea for sympathy and acquittal.

If by lucky chance a guilty man really is convicted, he gets a new trial. At the worst he entertains hope for probation or parole, seldom a baseless hope. Thus the penalty, such as it is, loses all power to dismay, and all deterrent efficacy.

The treatment of criminals who are known to be criminals keeps the highways peopled by murderous thugs, and the shadows of the city thick with thieves and potential assassins.

Really, something ought to be done about it.

It took a jury forty minutes to acquit a woman who had met a man at her own front door and weighted his person with the entire content of two revolvers. The case was most unusual. The woman told her story at the time. It was believed then even as the jury believed it later.

The husband of the woman had disappeared. She had reason to think he had been slain by the man that came to her house, demanding money, and threatening to treat her as he had treated the husband.

The woman did not lend approval to blackhand methods. She was not pleased at the loss of her husband. Her large family of children needed her. She had anticipated the visit and was ready for it, a gun in each hand.

Even the blackhand business seems to have its occasional off day.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I used to think that pluck is one of the most valuable qualities a man can have. Given pluck, I used to say, and a man will eventually get out of the deepest holes. But I've come to the conclusion that there is something even more worth having. That is the ability to keep on going long after pluck has gone.

"We're all right now," said my friend Mrs. Brandes. "We're out of the woods, our worries are over."

They ran on pluck for a time. Then pluck left. They were in a strange country. Neither could speak the language except to procure the most obvious necessities. They sank their capital in a losing venture. Then the husband fell ill of a fever. For eleven months his wife nursed him in a hut in a tropical jungle. During that time she did not see or speak to another white person. They left the jungle because they literally could stay no longer. Their money was almost gone and Brandes was about to die.

So they came to a city in which they were quite unknown and he was nursed back to health. The day came when out of the wreck of their fortune they had but $25 left. The husband had been a professional man. The wife had been a professional musician. They had lost courage so that there were times when death seemed the only way out. A few more days would have left them, starving, on the mercy of a foreign and perhaps inhospitable community.

So they bought a hotel. Maybe the in-for-a-sheep, in-for-a-lamb maxim animated them, but I prefer to think it was that perfect courage that keeps the right sort of a man or woman struggling on long after pluck is gone. Now they are on their feet again and their feet are on Easy street. No one knows precisely how the miracle has been accomplished, but that it was worked is indubiable. Maybe Fate gets tired battering people who are too game to be whipped, and it is Fate that takes the count.

One queer thing is that they had determined not to be beaten. If they had lost the $25 they put into the hotel they would have taken what they didn't have left and gone at something else. People of that sort can't be downed.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

A Wooden Box

A muffled groan from the bed in the corner caused the woman who was knitting in the lamp light across the room to put down her work and hurry to the bedside.

Her husband, who was an unwilling bed patient, having contracted an illness which had kept him in bed for several weary weeks, tried to smile as she bent over him.

"It's nothing," he said. "I tried not to groan. It just came in spite of me, someway."

"Is it the old pain?" asked the woman, gently.

"It's no pain at all. It's just a feeling that I can't lie still, that I am aching all over and no place in particular. I can't get to sleep. I've counted sheep for an hour, and I've said the Lord's prayer and the Twenty-first psalm backward, and sleep just won't come."

Patient Didn't Blame the Light.

"Perhaps it's the light that keeps you awake," suggested the woman, hoping that it was not the light, because of the comfort it was to sit across the room in its rays and knit and rejoice in her heart because her husband was getting better.

"It's not the light. I'm just cantankerous, I guess," said the man. "Don't pay any attention to me. Go back and sit under the lamp. I like to watch it shine on your hair."

The woman going back to her chair in the shaded lamplight, could not possibly know that the reason her husband was weary and restless was that the weight of clothes on his bed was wearying him.

The doctor had said to keep him warm. She was doing her best, with extra blankets and the best pink comforter and some hot irons in the bed as well.

Visitor Makes Suggstion.

And then came the man who made a point of dropping in each night for a brief visit. He tip-toed into the room a bit awkwardly, gripping the sick man by the hand as he sat down beside the bed.

And almost as if he sensed the sick man's discomfiture, he said, presently:

"Looks to me as if you had a heap of clothes over you, old man."

To which the sick man assented, adding that he was as nervous as a cat and conldn't lie still, much less go to sleep, and how were stocks today, all this in the same breath.

"Stocks are the same," said the visitor, jovially. "What you want is a cradle in the bed to raise the weight of those blankets off your feet. I know. I've been there. A box will do splendidly. Just knock the ends out, you know."

Crude Cradle Effective.

Certainly it sounded as if the visitor was out of his mind, murmuring about knocking the ends out of boxes when there were no boxes in sight. But a genial rummanging in the attic and then in the basement revealed a medium sized apple box, from which the man removed the nails and then the ends. Returning, he placed this in his friend's bed lengthwise, under the top sheet. The sick man's feet were beneath the improvised bed cradle, and the entire weight of the bed clothes rested upon the box.

It was a remarkable fact that almost at once the "twitchness" and restlessness disappeared. And very soon the man slept so quietly that his friend tip-toed from the room.

The Once Over

Rules for Radio-Telephone Users

1—Speak directly into the broadcaster.

2—If you have trouble getting your party, do not jiggle the antennae; shake the aerial pole or hammer on the roof.

3—If the "air is busy," hang up and try again.

4—Be courteous over the radiophone. Do not shout: "Get off the ozone!" "Aw, hang up!" "This is a private wave length!" or other vulgar commands.

5—Never lose your patience to the point of yelling. "I'll report you to the management!" Remember, the air is trying to serve you as fully as possible. After a hard day's work, the little nitrogen and oxygen units become very exhausted and nervous.

6—In case of any discourtesy or lack of attention on the part of the atmosphere, broadcast for the complaint operator. Complaint operators will be maintained in blimps over the larger cities to correct such matters.

7—In case of "air trouble," ask for the air chief.

8—Never ask for "information." Just listen long enough and you'll get both ears full.

9—To get a policemtn, say, "I want a policeman."

10—State very plainly what kind of policeman you want. How many policemen you want. How many policemen you get will depend upon your wave length. If your wave length is 200 miles, and if the territory is well policed, you should get several thousand policemen inside of forty-eight hours.

11—To report a fire say, "I wish to report a fire." In case you have a fire, just at the time "The Bedtime Stories" are being broadcasted, you will have to wait until they are finished. The management will send subscribers a booklet on: "How To Keep Fires Going Until an Opportunity Comes to Report Them" on request.

12—After reporting a fire by radiophone, you should get responses or regrets from firemen all over the United States.

13—In case of sickness, say "I wish to report a case of Spanish influenza." In a few moments, you will be assigned a place in the broadcasting program immediately after the "zither solo by Aletia Dudd" and the "weather report from Arlington."

14—Anything worse than influenza will be assigned a place at the bottom of the program.

15—Subscribers will please excuse slight errors in establishing connections on the radiophone. If you ask for "Saxaphone Selections by J. Goofus Zuff" and get a "Fashion Talk by Arabella McNally," kindly "excuse it, please." Likewise, if you call for "Address on the Darwinian Theory by Professor Duncan Dodobird" and are looped up with "Little Jack Rabbit Stories by David Corey," you will please hang up, call the complaint operator, and say in a courteous voice, "I got the wrong annoyance."

16—Subscribers must not swear through the air. It corrodes the ozone and annoys birds in flight.

17—Do not annoy the management with requests for exclusive rights. No private lines are being leased this season.

18—All calls in excess of the number specified in your contract will be charged for at the usual rate of ten cents a broadcast.

19—Unless bills are paid within ten days' of each quarter, the company will cut off the air.

ENGINEERS PLAN EXTENSION OF CO-OP. BANK

To Be Located in Various Sections of the United States

CLEVELAND, April 14.—A nation-wide co-operative banking system, for railroad employees, is the aim of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

These banks are to be located in scattered sections throughout the United States and are to be patterned largely after the Engineers' co-operative bank here, said to be the richest of its kind in the world, according to Warren S. Stone, chief of the engineers' brotherhood, and head of the bank. Resources of the local bank are more than $14,000,000 and deposits exceed $11,000,000, the monthly report shows.

Three co-operative banks already are in operation, at Tucson, Ariz., Hammon, Ind., and Philadelphia. Each is thriving, Stone declared.

The next step will be installation of a similar bank in the Pittsburgh district. Workers of the district are circulating subscription lists, and it is expected the bank will open shortly.

Cities in which these banks will be located, Stone said, include Minneapolis, Seattle, Spokane, and San Bernardino, Calif. Workers in other cities are expected to follow the lead at a later date, it was announced.

The idea of the co-operative banking system, as adopted by the brotherhood, breifly, is this:

The profits, or savings, of the bank are returned to depositors in the form of increased interest rates. In this way every depositor is a shareholder in the enterprise.

For instance, some time ago the bank here declared dividends and the money was distributed to depositors, at six per cent rate of interest. This is the first time in the banking history of the world, the officials stated, that depositors have shared in a bank's dividends.

Depositors may buy stock in the bank. That is voluntary. Stockholders, however, must be depositors in the bank.

The co-operative banks loan money to institute a "personal collateral loan" system, whereby a depositor will be loaned money, not on the usual collateral, but on his record as a worker, and as a citizen.

The bank is not restricted to railroad workers. In fact, only 14 per cent of the depositors here belong to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

STANFORD-CALIF. NET CHAMPS MEET

BERKELEY, Cal., April 14.—The Stanford-California tennis championship takes place here tomorrow. Captain Wallace Bates, Alec Powers, Dave Conrad, Bill White, and Carol Jensen will represent the Blue and Gold.

Phil Neer, national intercollegiate champion, Jimmy Davies, Richard Hinckley, Norman DeBeck, Dave Minocci, Leeds, and Teddy Mertz, compose the men on the Stanford squad.

Stanford is doped to win the meet, Neer and Davies being an extremely hard combination to beat.

TRANSVAAL SHOWN IN 'WILD HONEY' SETTINGS

Thread of Romance at the Glendale Runs Through South Africa

The thread of romance that carries the interest through the plot of "Wild Honey," the Universal-Jewel attraction at the Glendale Theatre today, is based on the independence of spirit of Lady Vivienne, the English lady of rank who is the heroine of Cynthia Stockley's novel, from which the picture was filmed! Priscilla Dean portrays the character.

How many women would brave the dangers of a trip through the barren spaces of the Transvaal, alone and unacquainted with the nature of the country and its people? Lady "Viv" does it for the sake of looking up the land which represents the only wealth she possesses and which every one says isn't worth the paper on which the deed is printed.

An independent spirit in a woman is one thing men always admire—until they get better acquainted with it. But it can lead to happiness, for the woman who has an indomitable spirit is sometimes the more easily dominated by "the right man."

"The right man" in "Wild Honey" is impersonated by Robert Ellis. Noah and Wallace Beery enact the chief roles of "vilainism" hue. Other players are Lloyd Whitlock, Raymond Blathwayt, Helen Raymond, Harry DeRoy, Carl Stockdale, C. J. Frank and Landers Stevens.

BURBANK TEACHER WED AT HAWAII

BURBANK, April 13.—On April 4, occurred the marriage on the island of Maui, one of the Hawaiian group of Albert L. Claytor, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Claytor, to Miss Maile Hastie, a native of the Islands, but the daughter of Scotch parents. She is a teacher in the schools there, and the ceremony was performed during the Easter vacation, as she will continue her work until the close of the term. She visited Southern California last summer. Mr. Claytor has not been back for nearly three years. He is in charge of the electrical work on a plantation.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE WAKEFUL SILENCE

There was once a lady who lived in the city
Where the street was all cobbled and noisy and gritty,
The motors whizzed by with their engines exploding,
And down on the street there were great trucks unloading.

The street cars went grinding and clanging and jangling,
And on the street corners were loud newsboys wrangling,
And over the pavements went taxicabs scooting,
And whizzing and rattling and blowing and tooting.

The fire engines went by with big sirens blowing
And gongs ringing loudly to tell of their going,
And all through the night there was orgy and riot
Of noises and never a time it was quiet.

And this dear old lady said: "Oh, what a pity
That I should live always up here in the city.
I'll go to the country where silence is keeping
The vigil of night when the people are sleeping."

"I'm tired of this shouting and clanging and gonging,
For nighttime and darkness and quiet I'm longing.
I'm worn out and tired of rushing and scooting
And clanging and ringing and whistling and tooting."

And so to the country she hied her, dear lady,
Where flowers were blooming and long lanes were shady,
And when the night fell and the shadows were creeping
She got into bed for a night of real sleeping.

And through the long hours she lay there and tumbled
And rolled and she tossed and she wondered and grumbled,
And went not to sleep till the red dawn was glowing
And the cows were all mooing and roosters all crowing.

And then she went back to her home in the city
Where the pavements were cobbled and noisy and gritty,
And she said: "I can sleep through the rumble and riot,
But I can't stand the country at night, it's too quiet!"

Aids in Keeping Young

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Those grow old quickest who worry most. This is a truism that, through every-day observation, should be familiar to everybody.

Yet the cultivation of an habitually serene, optimistic attitude of mind is a youth-preserving device too often left unused. No one who fails to make use of it need be surprised if he grow old before his time.

So with him who falls into the exceedingly bad habit of doing everything in a hurried or over-tense way.

Hurry, as I have often taken occasion to remark, is twin to worry. Both mean energy waste, and when they become habitual they mean also a slowing down of all the internal processes. This brings premature aging.

As does over-tenseness.

There are people who, from adolescence onward, seem never to relax. They hold themselves not only mentally tense, but physically tense as well.

Which involves a really serious strain on the whole organism. And one of the most certain effects of that strain is aging—an early aging that would not be if the great benefit of frequent relaxing were duly appreciated.

To relax at frequent intervals during the day still further helps to keep one young by its salutary effects on the mental and emotional state.

Power through repose—power to overcome any predisposition to needless worry, to ill-temper that weakens, to depressive conditions in general—is more than a phrase. It represents a fact of much importance to all of us. He who accustoms himself to daily rest periods—while yet working vigorously when at work—is doing much to make his life as a whole successful and in particular to retard the onset of old age.

The same may be said of him who learns to use his leisure wisely.

Leisure, it cannot be too clearly understood, is given men to be used, not abused. Multitudes abuse it by devoting it to a ceaseless pursuit of pleasure. But perpetual pleasure-hunting is one of the most fatiguing of all occupations.

And because it is so fatiguing it acts on the nervous system with positively toxic effects. Thus it gradually undermines, remorselessly ages.

Think of some among your own acquaintances who give their leisure to nothing but quest of pleasure. Have they remained conspicuously young in heart and young in appearance? Do not their faces prematurely bear the tell-tale marks of age?

Which suggests, of course, that to acquire a wide range of worthwhile interests, as avocations to which one may satisfyingly turn in leisure hours, is another aid in the preservation of youth. It is, beyond any question.

He who has varied interests is sure not alone to escape the boredom which ages the chronic pleasure-seeker—as it also ages the man living in a narrow mental rut—he is not only sure to escape this, but in addition is sure to remain mentally alert.

And to remain mentally alert is more than an aid to keeping young. It is an essential to keeping young.

These few suggestions I offer in the hope that they will prove of practical value to some who may need them. Alas, how many do need suggestoins like these! To how many old age comes when they should still be in the prime of middle life.

LONG DISTANCE DANCE AT RIO

RIO De JANIERO, April 14.—Imagine a mixture of the old and New Orleans Mardi Gras, Armistice night, the pre-war county fair in Winfield, Kansas; a section of the annual policemen's ball of Kansas City, and a wild night at Coney Island, and you'll have some conception of the Rio de Janiero Carnival, which closed last night—or rather some time after daylight today.

To a Brazilian, Carnival is the "be all and end all" of each year. For 360 days the people may be content to live a sober and somewhat melancholy existence, but on the other five—the carnival days—they make up for all they have missed.

Anybody who can answer how it is possible for a Brazilian to dance the Maxixe and Samba for five days and nights without other nourishment than beer and sandwiches, ought to be philosopher or scientist enough to tell what makes the howling dervish howl.

Newspapers had it figured out that the carnival this year would lack something of its former punch because of the year-long commercial crisis. They were wrong. Every grupo, rancho and bairra was represented with increased membership, costumes more wierd than ever and clever new songs such as:

"Oh, Minas Cheese" (I don't know where you are), or something or other about a dancing parrot.

Hundreds of thousands packed the down town streets, keeping up a continuous din. Cabarets were crowded to caapcity despite an admittance charge of ten milreis, which to a Brazilian is equivalent to two dollars and a half. The manager of the High Life, a popular dancing club, says he sold 5,000 admittances and 3,500 quarts of champagne.

AIR SERVICE TO CATALINA

LOS ANGELES, Apr 14—Regular passenger airplane service between Los Angeles and Catalina Island will be inaugurated about May 1, according to Paul J. Haaren, of the Pacific Marine Airways company. The Board of Commissioners has granted the company terminal facilities at the harbor of San Pedro. The terminal adjoins the new U. S. immigration station. Flying boats are now being constructed. It is expected that numerous travelers to the Wrigley isle, will avail themselves of the opportunity of the jaunt by plane.

TUJUNGA REALTY BOARD HOLDS MEETING

Plans for Entertainment of State Board Officers Are Discussed

TUJUNGA, April 14.—A meeting of the Tujunga realty board was held this morning at 10:30 at Insley's. Plans for the entertainment of President C. C. C. Tatum and Secretary Glenn D. Willaman of the state realty board on their proposed visit to Tujunga on April 25 were discussed. Dr. E. T. Theobald and John R. James, president and secretary of the local board, presented tentative arrangements for a dinner in the evening at Legion hall.

It is expected that several Los Angeles men will accompany the state board officers and plans are being made to make the occasion a notable one for the local organization.

Mrs. Williams Sells Interest

J. W. Russell, who recently entered the Tujunga Lumber and Supply company, has acquired the interest of Mrs. Nettie Williams, who was secretary-treasurer of the company. Mrs. Williams has retired from the business in order to rest and recuperate from the strain of her work as an organizer and officer of the concern. She is planning the erection of a hotel on Greely street and will superintend the erection of a bungalow court recently started for her on North Sunset street.

The firm now consists of J. W. Russell, B. F. Bolen, J. C. Redman and V. S. Mameiff.

La Crescenta

LA CRESCENTA, April 14.—Rev. A. P. Dunlop of Los Angeles will conduct the pre-Easter service at the Community church Friday evening, April 14. Rev. and Mrs. Dunlop give much of their time to Evangelistic work and musicians, and a splendid musical program will be one of the features of the evening.

One of the largest and most enjoyable meetings of the La Crescentra Woman's club was held at the home of Mrs. F. K. Czenuiski on Michigan avenue yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. F. H. Anderson presided. After the business meeting Mrs. Henrietta P. Capp made a splendid talk on "Interior Decoration." Mrs. Harry R. Dunlop of Vale, Oregon, sang Carrie Jacob Bond's "His Lulaby" and "I Want To Go Home" which added much to the pleasure of the afternoon. A memory book was presented Mrs. Belle Miller and a reception was given her, during the tea hour. Mrs. Miller will leave early in May for the East. Mrs. Czenuiski and Mrs. George Dunlop were hostess of the afternoon They were assisted by Mrs. C. E. Culbisson and Mrs. J. Erwin. The tea table was particularly attractive and was presided over by Mrs. Glen Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones and their daughters, Misses Elizabeth and Hanylen Jones leave next Monday for Seattle, their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their charming daughters have made many friends during their stay, who regret their departure.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wildhack motored to Palm Springs Wednesday. They were the guests of Mrs. Montague Glass of Pasadena.

Rev. A. H. Kelso and Simon Bickel attended Presbytery at Wilshire Presbyterian church of Los Angeles, Thursday.

A Year Ago Today

(From Glendale Daily Press, April 14, 1921)

Consonant with its policy to obtain the best talent obtainable to serce the city of Glendale with the best newspaper possible, the management of the Glendale Publishing and Printing Company has secured the services of Captain Thomas D. Watson as business manager of the Glendale Daily Press.

The students of Cerritos school were victors in the grammar school track meet carnival which ended yesterday afternoon. The Cerritos students piled up a total of 34½ points. Columbus avenue school was the second with a score of 27½ points.

The chamber of commerce committee on permanent building met last night in the chamber of commerce and organized a Citizens' Building Company with a capitalization of $100,000. Steps toward the erection of the permanent home of the chamber of commerce on South Brand boulevard near Harvard were ordered taken at once.

LONDON PURSUES HOOCH BEYOND

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Purported messages from Jack London, noted author, from the spirit realm, were read to a number of the author's friends at a meeting at the Paul Elder galories here.

London, in one message, declared that he was developing quite a thirst in the spirit realm, and said he needed the stimulus of some good materialistic whisky in order to strengthen his powers so that he could communicate with his friends.

Edward B. Payne, of Berkeley, read the documents. Payne, who is not a believer in spirit manifestations, declined to vouch for the spirit genuineness of the documents, but both he and Frederick Irons Bamford, Berkeley librarian, also a close friend of the author, declared them to be "strikingly characteristic" of London's style. The messages were "received" through an Oakland medium whose name was withheld.
